Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—Gov. Hadley said today with reference to the consideration by President Hill of the Missouri University of the offer made to him to become President of the Minnesota University:

"I am in receipt of letters from all parts of the State, urging me to do what I can to induce President Hill to continue as president of the Missouri State University.

"I have done and will continue to do all that I can to convince President Hill that his best opportunity for useful public service along educational lines is in the State of Missouri.

"I undertake to say that the answer to the question that is presented to President Hill for decision rests with the people of Missouri rather than with him, myself or any other public official.

"I do not understand that the offer that has come to him from Minnesota is attractive on account of any suggested increase in salary. I do not understand that he is dissatisfied with the present situation, on account of any lack of salary or on account of any unfriendliness on the part of the State Legislature, because he has frequently stated to me that he felt that the Forty-fifth General Assembly dealt with the university as fairly as it could deal in view of the limited revenues of the State."

"If I understand the situation correctly, the question that exists in Dr. Hill's mind is whether the university will receive such support from the people of Missouri as will give him the opportunities for public service along educational lines here as he would enjoy in the position that has been offered to him.

"The people of Missouri must awaken to a realization of the fact that they must make provisions for more liberal support of educational work, both along general and scientific lines.

"I understand the University of California offered to Henry J. Waters, dean of our agricultural college, $10,000 a year. He finally accepted the offer of the State of Kansas at a smaller salary to become the president of its agricultural college, not so I understand it, because he has thereby secured a larger salary than he was receiving here, but because the support of the State to that gave him a better field for usefulness than here.

"The State of Missouri should not permit other States, in so far as our equal in proportion or wealth, to take from us our leading educators."

KEPT MAN IN WOODS ALL NIGHT FROM ANGRY MOB

Constable J. H. Bierman of Meramec Township succeeded Thursday afternoon in lodging Charles Anderson, a peddler, in the Clayton Jail, after lying out with him all Wednesday night in the woods near Glenwood, where he was "a threatening crowd of farmers."

During half the night the country was up. As the peddler covered close to his protector with chattering teeth, the halloo from one searching party to another and the baying of their dogs were heard. Several of the housewives in the township had declared that Anderson had insulted them.

Both men were tried out when they reached Clayton, and it was with evident relief that Anderson found himself protected by the iron bars of his cell.

Went on Trial With Buggy. Bierman said that he received a telephone message Wednesday afternoon that a peddler was annoying women about six miles from Glenwood. He took a buggy and drove in that direction. As he neared the scene he saw Anderson fleeing down the road at his best speed, while about 20 farmers, armed with clubs and pitchforks and shouting "lynch him!" pursued close on his heels.

The constable wheeled his buggy about, waited until the fugitive was a pace with him, and shouted to him to climb in. Anderson, panting with fatigue and terror, fell across the buggy, and Bierman dragged him in. He whipped his horse to a gallop, and bending low to avoid a shower of stones, quickly distanced the farmers. As soon as he could Bierman put the Meramec River between his prisoner and the enraged township, and drove across into Franklin County. Later he ventured back, thinking he could make his way through. But he saw the reticence were still on the alert for their return. His horse, far from being prepared for another trial of speed, dropped from exhaustion.

VAN CLEAVE TERMS THE PROSECUTION OF TERMINAL A TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE

J. W. VAN CLEAVE, president of the Buck Stove and Range Co., who caused Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and other labor leaders, to be sentenced to one year in jail for contempt of the Supreme Court of Washington, D. C., surprised several hundred people at the public hearing in the City Hall on the Terminal bills by declaring that the prosecution of the Terminal for illegally occupying the city streets was a "travesty on justice," a "travesty of persecution," and a "travesty" on almost everything else.

Van Cleave's attack on the proceedings in Clark Avenue Police Court, coming from one who has made such a vigorous fight to uphold the dignity of the courts, fairly took the breath away from the people who were familiar with his prosecution of Mitchell, Gompers and others.

VAN CLEAVE went to the City Hall to advocate the passage of the Terminal bill. He urged prompt action to end the travesty, as he expressed it, that was going on in Judge Tracy's court.

Van Cleave obtained an injunction against Gompers, Mitchell and others restraining them from boycotting the stores and ranges he manufactures. He was then president of the Citizens' Industrial Association, which was making war on the labor unions. He charged the labor leaders with violating the injunction, resulting in their being sentenced to jail.

the city would not grant the necessary authority.

He said the Terminal Association distributes in salaries and for supplies more than $5,000,000 a year in St. Louis, pays taxes amounting to $200,000, and he thought it had a right to appeal to the Assembly for fair treatment on its bills authorizing an extension of the terminal facilities to make them adequate to the commercial requirements of the city.

George W. Simmons, vice-president of the Simmons Hardware Co., spoke for a group of suppliers in the Cupples Block. He said they all favored the passage of the bill. Other speakers were C. D. Greig of the Evans & Howard Fire Brick Co., J. W. Van Cleave of the Buck Stove and Range Co. and Paul Jones, real estate dealer.

An interesting diversion of the hearing was a clash between Edward Devoy and Frank H. Gerhart. Devoy challenged the statement of Gerhart, that the committee at Monday's hearing, that the Missouri Pacific transfers cars of coal across the river at Carondelet for $2.18. Gerhart sprang to his feet and demanded to be heard. He said a Mr. Schuyler of the Missouri Pacific, in testifying in the Government suit, had transferred at that rate. Devoy declared the rate does not now prevail, and Gerhart insisted the Terminal had acquired a monopoly on transfer facilities so it could raise the rates.

Joseph Penny of the Terminal sent a letter to the committee, with tariff sheets, to prove that the coal transfer rate at the Ivory Street Station in Carondelet is 30 cents a ton, the same as the Eads and Merchants bridges rates.

YOUNG LAMBERT, 21 YEARS OF AGE, GETS $800,000

Wooster, Youngest of Wealthy Family, Has Largest Inheritance.

IS PRINCETON STUDENT

Fortune Left by Father Has Grown Rapidly During Young Man's Minority.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—For three days Countess Santa Eulalia, formerly Mrs. John B. Stetson, widow of the millionaire hat manufacturer, whose alleged "ready-letter-writer" courtship by her artist husband was revealed by the $100,000 suit of Mrs. Josephine Ernst of Chicago for her work in writing the love letters, was in Chicago inognito.

The Countess registered at the Congress Hotel Sunday as "Miss Cummins." She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Cummins of Philadelphia. All three remained in their apartments much of the time and took their meals there. Mr. and Mrs. Cummins left Tuesday, but the Countess remained. Although she would not tell what her mission was, the Countess is thought to be hearing and seeing the evidence in a rumored suit.

"I have been here on personal business," she said, when seen today. "That all I will say except that I am the Countess Eulalia. I do not desire my visit to become known."

The Countess Eulalia returned from Portugal six weeks ago without the Count. Rumors of divorce were denied by the family solicitor.

It was given out that a settlement had been reached between the Countess and the Count.

Arthur W. Lambert, a cousin, and one of the guardians, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he could not discuss the growth of young Lambert's fortune or state what his holdings are now before the report was filed in the Probate Court. He said this would probably be done on Friday or Saturday.

But it is known that the fortune of the youth has grown during the 21 years of his life to great proportions. It consists of stock in the Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. and in real estate.

One of the features of the inheritance is that it makes the youngest son probably the wealthiest member of his family. At the time his elder brothers came into their inheritance their holdings did not represent as much capital and since that time they have had the expense of families to keep up while Wooster Lambert has been at school and college and living on a modest allowance. The bulk of his fortune has grown with the investments made by the guardians.

Wooster Lambert is now a student at Princeton. He finishes his education there next year. At college and among his friends in St. Louis he is very popular—being unassuming in his manner and apparently not allowing the knowledge of the fortune that was to be his to affect his attitude towards others.

He is fond of sports. So far he has not given any evidence of a desire to "go up in the air" like his brother, Albert Bond Lambert, except that he likes automobiles and is an expert and daring driver of fast cars.

PAY CASH IN ADVANCE TO FETCH BACK THIEVES

When I became chief, I took charge of $1200 or $1500 left on deposit here by complainants.

"The Circuit Attorney," said Chief Creech, "has a fund upon which he draws at his own discretion for the return of prisoners to the city. How much this fund covers I don't know, but I don't think it goes far."

"Now anybody who has ever brought in prisoners back to St. Louis, Circuit Attorney Jones said:

"The only fund on which I can draw is a contingent fund of $5000 allowed the office for the preparation of cases. It does not reach far."

"Even were I to draw on the contingent fund for such expenses, somebody must put up the money in first instance. The actual money cannot be drawn from the fund until everything that is to be charged has been done. Then my charges must be O. K'd by two municipal officers and the Circuit Court."

"But the railroads want cash for their tickets, and so do the persons who furnish food and other necessities to the officers and prisoners. Somebody must dig into his pockets. In the cases that I handle, such as the Dorey case, I stand the expense myself. Later I get the money from the State. But the State is always $300 or $400 in debt to me. And even this unsatisfactory arrangement cannot cover everything. The local Clearing House Association paid to bring Porter back from France."

Way to Reimbursement Devoted. "They are now trying to 'gure out some way to reimburse themselves. And have found that there is a way in which it can be done. They must prove their claims before the Governor, and when he is satisfied that they are correct, they can be collected in the same manner as other claims against the State."

"Anybody who has ever attempted to collect a claim against the State knows how easy it is to do it. All they will have to do is to get a bill through the General Assembly appropriating the amount claimed and allowing it to them."

The average person who tried to collect a claim against the State would more than earn his claim twice over before he got it where it is to be collected the same as other claims against the State."

Hyde Dismisses Suit for $100,000 in Swope Case the hands of a woman of intuition and character—and a beautiful throat. I have never seen a more beautiful woman in my life than Mrs. B. Clark Hyde, Mrs. Hyde said.

I have not seen any member of my family since the 17th of December, when I left my home, or what used to be my home, in Independence, and came here with my husband, Mrs. Hyde said.

No one has been near us, none of the family. I mean to see how we are bearing this trouble.

I have not heard from my mother at all. Yes, my mother and I were always very dear friends, more like sisters, people used to say, than mother and daughter.

I was the eldest girl you know, and after father died, I sort of took charge of things at home. None of my sisters ever bought a dress or a hat or a new piece of music without getting me to go along and help.

We never had one word of disagreement except about men. My mother never liked any man who paid any attention to me. It made no difference who the man was—as soon as she saw that he liked me, she took a violent dislike to him. It was so with Dr. Hyde—after she saw that I was fond of him.

I never deceived her about him in my life. I was engaged to him for years, and I never saw him without telling my mother that I was going to see him.

She was very angry when we were married and she has always disliked him bitterly ever since.

I don't know why—just because I love him, I reckon.

My mother is a good woman, and she has always been very good to me. I can't imagine why she doesn't come to see me.

The great, liquid eyes grew watery for an instant, and I thought there was a look as of coming tears in their soft depths, but it passed, and Mrs. Hyde went on again, her voice as calm and measured, her words as well chosen as if she had been telling a grave story to an audience of serious children.

I was reared in Independence. My uncle Col. Swope, lived at our home with us. We didn't know him very well. No one knew him very well. Even his own mother, so they tell me.

Mrs. Hyde's soft lips set and then her tall, good-looking young husband came into the room and sat down by the bed and took her little, delicate, white hand in both of his, and we all began to talk about Harry Lauder and about the love songs he sang, the simple, sweet little Scotch love songs, so full of the old, old refrain, all about fidelity and faith and simple trust and honest love.

And when we went out of the house I was crying. But Mrs. Hyde did not shed one single tear.

the over the suggestion that they be reconciled.

Brokaw declared his wife persistently avoided him and that most of the time they lived only in the semblance of a married couple. This was in reply to the wife's charge that he once, with the aid of a servant, had broken down the door of her boudoir in which she had locked herself.

Among other things Brokaw said he objected to in his wife's conduct was her excessive drinking and her use of profanity.

"The usual names he called me when he was angry," Mrs. Brokaw declared on the stand, "were damned liar, damned idiot, damned fool, dirty dirt, damned skunk and others very much worse."

Mrs. Brokaw is 21 years old and was married in September, 1907. Brokaw's first wife, who was Miss Coralle Couderc, divorced him in 1905. His second wife was Miss Mary Blair of Canastota, N. Y.

Between Brokaw's first and second marriages he paid $1750 to Katherine Pottin in settlement of a breach-of-promise suit that notorious women brought against him.

Mrs. Brokaw asked $300 a month alimony. Mr. Brokaw submitted a statement that he was worth only about $10,000 and declared that an award of $30,000 a year alimony would be excessive.

BAIRD CALLED TO POLICE BOARD IN I O U INQUIRY

With Maroney He Will Help
Investigation of the Pension Fund Shortage.

THE WORK IS DIVIDED

One Lawyer Will Attend
Only to the Criminal Prosecution of Accused.

The Police Board, in its investigation of the relief association shortage, is getting the daily session habit. The third meeting in three days has been called for Thursday afternoon, and William E. Baird, Second Assistant City Counselor, is summoned to attend. He was assigned Wednesday by City Counselor Walther to act as special counsel to the board during the inquiry, at the request of the commissioners.

"I believe the purpose of the board is to place me in closer touch with my duties," said Baird. "I have not yet got my work lined up, but expect to know what it will be after the meeting."

According to a statement of Col. John A. Laird, president of the Police Board, Baird will probably be intrusted with the I O U investigation and the cases of officers of the association who are accused of negligence in supervising the accounts of John M. Healy, deposed secretary of the association.

That the inquiry into the Lally I O U's has not been dropped, despite their reputation as being by former Secretary John E. Riedy, is indicated by the fact that the notes are still in the possession of the board, and that no information concerning what action will be taken on them is procurable.

Because of the unwieldy volume to which the police fund disclosures have grown, the investigation will from now on be divided into two distinct departments, over which the Police Board will exercise a general supervision.

Any criminal charges growing out of the shortage in the accounts of Healy will be managed by Andrew C. Maroney, special counsel for the members of the association. All other charges not amenable to criminal or civil prosecution, but falling within the jurisdiction of Police Board discipline, will be in the hands of Baird.

Maroney spent part of the morning at the offices of the association at the Magnolia Avenue Police Station and "inspired" with Expert Accountant Ambrose concerning the examination of Healy's books. With Maroney were Lieut. McCormick, president of the association; Policeman Cradick, the new secretary, and Policeman Caudle, who is credited with having precipitated the investigation.

To Get Evidence in Shape.
The division of the investigation into definite provinces means, according to Col. Laird, that the preliminaries of the inquiry are nearing an end, and that the point has been reached where it is possible to prepare specific evidence for the February grand jury, which convenes next week.

"The investigation has reached a place," says Col. Laird, "where we are ready for legal action."

It was announced after Wednesday's unexpected and secret meeting of the Police Board, that Laird would be assisted by Chief of Detectives Smith and Inspector McDonnell. This is taken to mean that the policy of excluding Chief of Police Crecy from the investigation is to be continued. Col. Laird said on one occasion that Crecy would be placed in charge of canvassing the I O U mystery, but no step in this direction has been taken.

Under Baird's authority may come also the cases of Trustees Walter J. Cliffe and Thomas Dugan, and Treasurer John Dunigan of the association, who have been accused by Col. Laird with "gross dereliction of duty" in failing to discover the shortage of the police fund.

Maroney's retention in the case meets with the personal approval of Gov. Hadley, according to news dispatches from Jefferson City.

That the Police Board welcomes the entrance of Attorney Maroney and Baird into the investigation is shown by a statement of Col. Laird.

"It all looks like a big dish of spaghetti," said he, "and Maroney and Baird will unravel the spaghetti."

Money Bailed by Policemen.
It is not known what the retainer's fee of Maroney will be, as the return from the subscriptions being collected in all the police districts are not yet in. At present the total is about $300.

At a meeting of police captains Wednesday night at headquarters, it was decided to recommend that $60, subscribed in the department two years ago as a reward for the slayer of Policeman Neil Boyce, be added to the counsel fund.

The reward was claimed by both Chief Smith and Jailer Wolf, but it was decided in the courts that neither had a right to it. The money has remained in the hands of Capt. Young of the Central District.

EMMA GOLDMAN'S TALK AS HEARD BY MISS MARTYN

Teachers Listen to Woman
Anarchist's Attack on Modern Public Schools.

REPLIES TO QUERIES

Speaker Tells Audience That American Educators Aim at Quantity Only.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

THOSE ministers who have listened to the attacks of Emma Goldman upon organized society to such an extent of childhood as mania and whooping cough, would have been surprised to find at the general meeting, the intensity and the high-browed appearance of the audience who so quietly submitted to such incoherence Wednesday night.

The occasion was Emma Goldman's anarchistic lecture on "The Modern School and the Modern Child." The subject, no doubt, accounted for the predominance of public school teachers and other educators in the audience. The speaker's eulogy of Ferrer, her comparison of his work with that of Froebel, Pestalozzi and Tolstai, was met with the bitter denunciation of the Roman Catholic Church, responsible, in her opinion, for the death of Ferrer.

The declaration of her belief that from the moment of Ferrer's death his work became universally alive, was applauded enthusiastically. Another period in Miss Goldman's address which brought forth applause was when she declared France to be the cradle of liberty and a woman, Louise Michel, the originator of the modern school.

Answers Questions Asked by Auditors.

SHE was asked, "What is the difference between the modern school and the public school of America?"

"What effect has the modern school anarchy upon the child?"

"Are the accusations of the Catholic church that the Masons instigated the riots occasioned by the death of Ferrer in any way justifiable?"

Miss Goldman answered the questions at great length. The teachers heard the American system reviled from first to last.

"American schools ignore quality while they exploit quantity," she said. "Their method of education consists of two things, discipline and restraint, which is all right for creating little slaves."

"It is necessary to educate the educators that they must respect the personality and physical needs of the child. At present the idea prevails that children are created for the convenience of the teachers only. They provide them only with what Goethe called predigested food, which the parent and grandparent has chewed over for generations. Few stop to think that teaching is the greater art in the world, where in the teaching coloring, outlining of character you deal with live material, real children, human ideas."

ADAM HAD NEGRO BROTHER, BELIEF OF A MISSIONARY

Dr. E. H. Richards Believes
Eden's Tenant Had Several Fraternal Kinsmen.

NOT DUE TO CLIMATE

Preacher Repudiates Theory
That Sun and Condition
Produced Ethiopian.

That the negro did not get his color from Ham and that he is not even a member of the race of Adam, but a descendant of some four or five brothers that he thinks Adam must have had, is the theory advanced by the Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Richards, one of the African missionaries here for the Laymen's Evangelical Convention which opens Thursday in the Armory, Grand and Manchester avenues.

Dr. Richards has spent 30 years with the black men in Africa. He is stationed in Uganda, in deepest Africa. He thinks ex-President Roosevelt is one of the greatest teachers of the age.

"I am glad Roosevelt is in Africa," said Dr. Richards to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Marquette Hotel. "There are those who criticize him for shooting wild animals, but he used not spare them. We have great fields with tens of thousands of them there and if he places a few in the Smithsonian Institute where our children can enjoy them forever, I don't think he's to be censured."

From his 30 years of observation and study of the negro in his native Ethiopia, Dr. Richards has reached the following conclusions:

"The negro never came from Ham. You cannot get a black man from a white one, either by time or conditions. There is no verse of Scripture that maintains any such idea. The notion that the negro came from Ham is from the commentaries and not from the Bible.

"The Boer has been in Africa 400 years and you can't stand in the same 10-acre lot with him and tell him that he's getting black. There'd be only one of you left and it would be the Boer. The Boer and his woman are as fair as ours and fairer and there is no tendency to darkness in them. Our Arab friend has been there 800 years that we know of and his hair is as straight, his nose as aquiline, and his complexion as Asiatic as those of his brothers who remained in Asia."

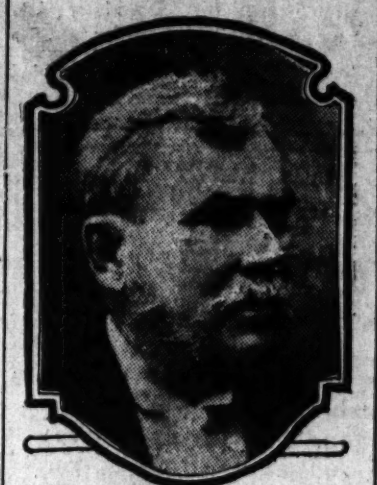

"The black man is co-Adamite with Adam. Adam probably had about four brothers that the Bible doesn't mention."

Negro Created for Africa.

"The black man is altogether different from a son of Adam. The nose, the growth on his head where we have hair, and his lips, these are things that time and sun will not change."

"God Almighty knew what he was doing when he made the black man and he made him for Ethiopia. On a cold morning in Uganda when I would arise well clothed and run up and down to get warm, rows of negroes would just stand and absorb the heat through their backs and then face around take it in on the other side of the body. COOPERS MAKE FINAL APPEAL

Carmack's Slayers Ask New Trial of Tennessee Court.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 3.—The final appeal for a motion for a new trial was made before the Supreme Court today by Gen. Luke E. Wright in behalf of Col. D. B. and Robt. Cooper, convicted of the murder of former U. S. Senator E. W. Carmack and sentenced to penal servitude for 30 years.

Gen. Wright paid a glowing tribute to Senator Carmack's genius, versatility and cleverness, but said he possessed the dangerous gift of sarcasm and inactivity without the sense of responsibility.

NEGRO IN RAGE WITH GHOST RUNS NAG NEARLY TO DEATH

Families Leave Vicinity Where Woman in Black Abides and Bald Eagle Lit.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 2.—A ghost has caused terror among the negroes living on Ohio and Illinois avenues, and a number of families have sought other quarters since the scare began.

It is said that one day recently a bird resembling a bald eagle alighted on John Alexander's barn. It attracted much attention, for it sat there some time. That night near midnight a woman in black emerged from the barn and made her way down the road toward the country.

In the morning Alexander watched the ghostly visitor, and at last he mustered up courage to pursue her, after he had seen her for several nights. He rode his horse nearly to death for a long distance into the country, the apparition keeping just in front of him and finally disappearing.

Alexander's neighbors were told and they all have kept watch. They say that each night when the woman in black is about to come out of the barn a huge arrow is silhouetted against the sky directly overhead and pointing down toward the roof.

Drowns Self After Selling Farm.
PAOLA, Kan., Feb. 2.—Virgil Waggoner, a farmer living three miles east of Freeman, Mo., committed suicide by jumping into a well. He owned 180 acres near Freeman which he sold for $100 per acre. When he came to buy again he could not purchase a place for that price and he worried until he became demented.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO GET CONTROL OF WHOLE STATE

Dickinson's Victory in Sixth
Taken as G. O. P. Weakness Throughout Missouri.

ORGANIZATION IS SOLID

Many Fine Plums to Be Fought For at the Next Fall Election.

Encouraged by the overwhelming victory in the Sixth Congressional District election, Democratic leaders are planning an early and aggressive campaign to take the State out of Republican hands.

Candidates for State and city offices are expected to announce their positions rapidly. A party nomination, they believe, will be equivalent to success. For the first time in six years, the leaders of all the Democratic factions are together, and this is one of the reasons for the superior organization shown by the Democrats in the Sixth District.

The final returns, as officially tabulated by the county clerks, show C. G. Dickinson defeated his Republican opponent, Phil S. Griffith, by 754 majority.

Expect 30,000 Majority.
If this ratio of gain can be held at the fall election, the Democrats figure their majority in the State will exceed 30,000.

They expect to do much better in the cities, which, with the exception of Kansas City, went solidly Republican at the 1896 election.

The annual salaries of all the officials in the State to be elected in November aggregate more than $2,000,000. In every county, assessors, collectors, county clerks and members of the Legislature are to be chosen. The State at large will be called upon to elect a Supreme Court Judge, Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner and Superintendent of Public Schools. It is generally believed the present incumbent, Judge James B. Sanit, will receive the supreme judgeship nomination, although friends of Judge Shelton of Macon are urging him to make the race.

Opposition for Gass.
Superintendent Gass will have opposition for re-nomination. For Railroad Commissioner, Capt. W. C. Bronaugh, J. A. C. Hiller and others are already in the field.

St. Louis is to elect five new circuit judges to succeed Judges Sale, Kinsey, Homer, Fisher and Withrow, whose terms expire this year.

The term of this office is six years and the salary $5600 a year.

Other choice plums on the November political tree are those of Prosecuting Attorney and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, two Judges of the Court of Criminal Correction and a Recorder of Deeds.

Then there are three State Senators to be elected from this city and 16 members of the lower house of the Legislature, besides three Congressmen. The Democratic contest in the Eleventh District promises to be unusually lively.

Hugh McKimling and Assistant City Attorney Mort Levy are expected to oppose Congressman Gill, who has announced himself for re-nomination. The congressional prize is now very much in demand, as it is worth to its possessor $7000 a year.

Seip Begins Campaign.
In the Twelfth District, Colin M. Seip, president of the St. Louis Democratic Club, has begun an informal canvass of the district.

The district is very close, going Republican by a narrow majority in the Republican landslide 15 months ago. Hilram Lloyd, Speaker of the House of Representatives at the 1898 session of that body, is expected to capture the republican nomination.

Congressman Coudrey, who is credited with a desire to run again, appears to have lost the support of the regular Republican organization.

The local Democracy is certain that Gov. Hadley is not so very popular with those St. Louis interests which contributed so largely to the 17,000 majority he got here. It is on national issues, however, that the Democrats say they will make their largest gains.

The present high cost of living, without a resultant increase in wages, is sure to wear thousands of votes from the Republicans, in the cities especially, the Democrats assert.

Will Start Organizing.
Chairman Warner and his associates on the Democratic City Committee will begin the work of organization in a few days. The Democratic State Committee is arranging a conference to outline campaign arrangements. Former Gov. Folk still remains on the fence regarding the senatorial contest. David R. Francis and James A. Reed are going after the toga in earnest.

On the Republican side, a strong sentiment has developed in favor of Gov. Hadley for senatorial honors. Republican leaders seem thoroughly dissatisfied with Senator Warner's course at Washington and are not so favorable to his re-election as they were a month ago.

Walter S. Dickey, chairman of the State Committee, may make the race, although he also is known as a high tariff man.

Senator La Follette and the other Republican insurgents have a big following among Missouri Republicans, and there is a suspicion in well-informed political quarters that Gov. Hadley is very much against the Cannon-Payne-Aldrich crowd.

MINER LIGHTING CIGARETTE KILLS 68 IN COAL SHAFT

Match Ignites Gas in Mexican Pit and Workers Are Suffocated.

50 MEN ARE INJURED

Drifts Were Equipped With Electric Lights and Modern Ventilators.

Week's Death Toll in Coal Mines

Day	Place	Dead
Monday	Primero, Col.	75
Tuesday	Drakesboro, Ky.	34
Wednesday	Los Esperanzas, Mex.	68

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 3.—Because a miner attempted to light a cigarette in a gas filled chamber of the Palau coal mine at Los Esperanzas, Mexico, he and 67 of his comrades are dead and more than 50 are injured.

Gas has been heavy in the lower workings of the mine ever since it was opened. The miners, Mexicans and Japanese, were forbidden to smoke and only electric lights and safety lamps were used below the surface.

At 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning those at work above ground were startled by a loud explosion, and almost instantly a vast cloud of dust and smoke burst from the mouth of the shaft.

The rescuers worked in relays searching for and carrying to the surface the bodies of the dead and dying miners.

After six hours, 53 bodies were brought to the surface, while nearly 40 injured men were taken to hospitals for treatment.

The injured owe their escape from death to the fact that they were working at points where they were protected from the rush of foul air and gas.

The Palau mine is one of the best-equipped coal mines in the Republic of Mexico. It has an adequate ventilation system, is provided with electric lights and the mining officials are utterly at a loss to account for the presence of mine damp in No. 2 workings.

FIREMAN OVERTURNS TRUCK TO SAVE YOUNG GIRL'S LIFE

Sends Horses Into Pillar and Will Probably Die of His Injuries.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Frederick Mayer, a fireman, driver of the truck of Engine Company 141, is dying in a Brooklyn hospital, after performing a splendid feat of heroism, while driving to a fire late last night.

His horse was on a full run, when directly in his path a young girl who stood panic-stricken on a cross walk.

Close to her on one side stood a trolley car filled with passengers; on the other side was one of the tall iron pillars of the elevated railway.

If he kept on he would run down the girl; if he turned to the right he would endanger the lives of the passengers.

In the twinkling of an eye, Mayer pulled to the right, cleared around the side of the truck, to jump, gave the reins a mighty tug and ran full tilt into the iron pillar.

There was a crash, the horses were thrown down badly injured, the truck was overturned and Mayer was pinned under it, with skull fractured, leg broken and body crushed.

MUNICIPAL DANCE HALLS, IS PLEDGE OF GAYNOR BOARD

Women's Club Reports New York Conditions Are Worse
Than in Paris.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The establishment of a series of municipal dance halls in New York City, where young men and women can go without being subjected to serious temptation, has been submitted by Mayor Gaynor's new Park Commission. A report recently submitted by a Committee on Amusements for Working Girls, appointed by the Women's University Club, declared conditions in many of the dance halls are worse than anything that can be found in Paris.

"The work for evil that is being done cannot be estimated," said the report.
"The dances are largely given by secular associations, which make this their trade."

"A great many of the dance halls have hotel accommodations attached and these that have bars on the floor simply aggravate the evil."

The Patent Rights Covering the Manufacture of Aluminum Have Expired

Heretofore the prices of Aluminum utensils have been considerably higher than the prices we now quote in this special sale, which takes place in our big Basement tomorrow. Aluminum ware is many, many times as durable as tin or granite ware, is not affected by acids, very light in weight, does not dent, chip, rust or leak, and will last for years. While the initial cost is a bit more than for tin or enamel ware, the remarkable indestructibility of aluminum articles makes them ultimately the most economical cooking utensils possible to buy. If you're tired of buying new kitchen dishes every month or so, why not join the ranks of the thousands who use aluminum? You'll never desert that army of satisfied people if you once join it. Some lots are small, so come early.

MAYOR ORDERS STREET BE VACATED; OH, NO, NOT BY TERMINAL, ONLY BY WOMAN

Two city streets were closed Thursday by Mayor Krepsmann. The Mayor first read carefully the ordinance under which City Attorney Anderson has successfully prosecuted a number of cases against the Terminal Association for street grabbing. Thereupon he dispatched City Marshal Weinberger and a corps of aids to remove the obstruction at once.

What? No, it was not a Terminal track which the Mayor ordered removed.

It was only a fence which citizens complained is blocking Sixteenth and Chambers streets where those streets intersect.

The Terminal admits that it occupies many streets without warrant under the law. But in the Terminal's case there is considerably more involved than a question as to whether the land in which the obstruction is built is really a street or private property.

Mrs. Rosalie Greffett, wife of Julius E. Greffett, a real estate dealer at 824 Chestnut street, owns the land on which the fence is built, according to records at the City Hall. The property is recorded, since 1843, when it was claimed by the Mullaplan estate.

But the Mayor and the Street Commissioner say that they construe property to be a city street "by implication."

WARRINER FELL
HEIR TO $10,500
THEFT, HE SWEARS

Declares Treasurer Comstock's Accounts Were Short When He Took Charge.

METHODS OF SIMPLEST

Big Four Defaulter Asserts He Covered Thefts by Addition and Subtraction.

By Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—Charles L. Warriner today testified under oath that Frank D. Comstock, his predecessor as local treasurer of the Big Four Railway, was short $10,500 when Warriner succeeded him.

"I assumed that shortage as part of my own," said Warriner. A ruling by Judge Swing that all the testimony regarding Warriner's default is relevant in the trial of Mrs. Jeanne Stewart Ford on a charge of blackmailing the former local treasurer of the Big Four Railway, today opened the way for a detailed sworn statement from Warriner as to the amounts he had taken and what he had done with them.

Warriner's testimony followed by Mrs. Ford's.

The ruling came in setting aside an objection by the prosecution to the line of cross-examination followed by Mrs. Ford's attorneys.

Warriner testified personally to the court, declaring that he had confessed his wrong and paid the penalty and that questions as to the details of the shortage would be very "painful" to him.

It was toward the end of the morning session that Attorney Thorndyke started in to find out why Warriner's shortage had not been discovered by the auditing force of the railroad. Warriner replied that it was a matter of "mere addition and comparison of figures."

Clash Over a Question.
"What was the system you pursued in taking all this money?" asked Thorndyke.

The prosecuting attorney objected to the form of the question. The court ordered Warriner to answer, saying: "It has been testified that large sums were taken from the Big Four and that large sums were paid out of this money to the defendant at this trial, therefore all evidence with reference to the taking of this money is relevant."

Turning to Warriner, the judge said: "The defense has a perfect right to cross-examine you on this subject to the last detail."

Explaining his system, Warriner said: "I took the money from the daily receipts of the Big Four. These receipts varied, but some times ran as high as $200,000 or $300,000 a day. It was only necessary for me to make the credit less than the amount received."

Thorndyke brought out that the auditor of the road had duplicates of the receipts and remittance slips, with which to check Warriner's accounts. He asked Warriner how it happened that the shortage had not been discovered, the witness replying: "That's for him to explain."

Q. Was there some understanding between you and the auditor? A. There was not; he did not know of my shortage.

Q. Who is the auditor of the Big Four? A. P. A. Hewitt.

Q. If he had compared the remittance slips with the general ledger he would have found you out in a moment, would he not? A. Yes, nodded Warriner.

Q. Did you change the remittance slips? A. No, I just changed the total credits.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR BIG PACKING COMPANY AFTER MEXICAN BANK GOES UNDER

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—As the outcome of the collapse of the United States Banking Co. of Mexico, an institution founded on the savings and deposits of a former railroad stockholder, a receiver has been appointed for the Mexican National Packing Co., a $25,000,000 New Jersey corporation, doing business across the border.

George L. Ham was the president of the banking company, a comparatively few years ago he was a stockholder on a railroad in Canada. He went to Mexico and was so thrifty that soon he became a sort of banker for his fellow employees, discounting their wages.

This side line to stockholding proved so profitable that Ham in a short time dropped the shovel and opened a cigar store in Mexico City. Next he became a banker and eventually established the concern with the high-sounding title of the United States Banking Co. of Mexico City.

Soon after that had been founded and Ham had elected himself president, John W. De Kay went to Mexico City. He had been the president of a small publishing house in Whitewater, N. D. In a brief time he obtained several concessions from the Mexican Government, the principal of which was the exclusive privilege of slaughtering cattle in Mexico City until 1920.

Then De Kay met Ham, who agreed to finance the scheme. The company was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, its concessions capitalized and De Kay departed for England with a large bulk of the bonds, which he purposed disposing of there.

He succeeded in placing $2,000,000 of them, together with two-thirds of the $25,000,000 common stock and about $200,000 of the floating debt, with the British and Mexican Trust (Ltd.) of London.

All went well until the collapse of the ex-stockholder's bank. Then the Englishmen became alarmed and have now applied, through their local Consul, Sir Guy Griggs of New Jersey, for the removal of a receiver.

POLICE FIND STOLEN MONEY
BURIED IN NEGRO'S CELLAR

Prisoner Had Been Employed at Store Where $68 Was Taken in Burglary.

The Carondelet policemen detailed to investigate a burglary at the general store of Becker & Seckel at 6719 South Broadway, concluded the crime was committed by someone familiar with the premises. The store was entered Wednesday night through a rear window and $67 was taken from a coffee can concealed on a shelf.

"The man who found that hiding place was no stranger around this store," remarked Sgt. Hendy. Suspicion fell upon a negro who had worked about the store and the police found him in bed asleep at his home.

The policemen found a spot in the cellar of the negro's home where the earth appeared to have been freshly dug. They used their hands as shovels and down about a foot beneath the surface they found a sack containing $67.

The negro, George Salter, was taken to the Carondelet Station and charged with the burglary. He denied knowing how the money came to be in the cellar. He lives at 7114 Vermont street.

DISAPPEARED
FEEL SPLENDID

Stella Halquist, of Laporte, Minn., Tells How Her Troubles Disappeared After Taking Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

"I am getting along fine and feel splendid, since taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Stella Halquist, of this place.

"I used to have backache, headache, and that tired out feeling. I had other womanly ailments and hot flashes, but they have almost disappeared now."

"I cannot praise Cardui enough, for it has done wonders for me," Laporte, Minn.

Cardui is no mere nerve sedative or pain killer, and contains none of the new headache ingredients, the too frequent indulgence in which may be dangerous.

No harmful effects can possibly come to young or old, from the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and thousands of letters have written, like Stella Halquist, to tell of the great benefit they obtained from its use.

Ask your druggist.

NOTE—The Cardui Home Treatment for Women, consists of Cardui (41), Theodore's Black Draught (25), or Veto (50), for the liver and Cardui Antiseptic (50c). These remedies may be taken singly, by themselves, or three together, as a complete treatment for women's ills. Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for special instructions, and 66-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

PAULHAN FLIES 15 MILES THROUGH BIG SNOWSTORM

Aviator Goes Cross Country After a Preliminary Trip of Eight Miles.

By Associated Press. DENVER, Colo., Feb. 3.—Louis Paulhan made a 15-mile cross-country flight at Overland Park yesterday in a driving snowstorm.

Flourishing through three inches of snow at the start, Paulhan warmed up his engine by a preliminary flight of eight miles. It was bitterly cold, but, after donning heavy clothing, he again rose in the air and disappeared in the snow flurries over the western horizon. He swung back in a wide circle and alighted within a few feet of his starting point. The snow settled thickly in the plane, but the machine seemed to cause the aviator no inconvenience. Paulhan was so stiff from cold after the flight that he had to be helped from the machine.

Three Different Machines Fly. BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The first successful flights of three different types of aeroplanes of purely German construction took place yesterday. A biplane with the inventor, Echter, and his assistant, made a flight of a short distance at Landau, but the assistant's nervousness was the cause of a slight accident. The machine is built to carry six.

At Essen a biplane under the control of Engineer Hillmann made eight short flights, while Borken in a monoplane constructed on the new Schiele-Herfort system flew 300 yards.

MOST PEOPLE DO NOT KNOW CAUSE OF THEIR SICKNESS

Does human health depend on one organ alone? This question is becoming widely discussed since L. T. Cooper first advanced his theory that the stomach is the true seat of life and all health dependent upon it. Mr. Cooper, who has met with remarkable success in the sale of his new medicine, believes that the stomach is responsible for most sickness, and that this organ is weak in the present generation. While discussing his theory recently, he said: "I am asked time and again to tell why my medicine has made such a record wherever I have introduced it. My answer is, because it restores the stomach to a normal condition. No one will deny that today there are more half-sick men and women than ever before. Nothing critical seems to be the matter with them. They are just half-sick most of the time. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands during the past two years, and few knew indeed what their trouble was. One said nervousness, another said kidney trouble, another liver complaint, some constipation, or heart trouble, or lung trouble. Many had treated, as they called it, for most of these diseases at different times. A very common complaint is 'all run down' or 'tired all the time,' or 'no appetite.'"

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill-health is caused by stomach trouble, and nothing else. My New Discovery puts the stomach in sound condition in about six weeks. Mighty few people can be sick with a sound digestion. That is why my medicine is selling at such a tremendous rate. I have convinced many thousands of people that these things are so, and the number is growing by leaps and bounds."

Among more recent converts to Mr. Cooper's beliefs is Mrs. Lottie L. Miner, living on Rural Route No. 2, Henniker, N. H., who says: "I was in poor health for six years, from stomach trouble and indigestion. Quite frequently my stomach was so weak that it would not retain solid food. I had vomiting spells every morning, and was subject to frequent attacks of dizziness. Life became such a burden that I often felt it was not worth the living. I tried everything I could hear of, but found nothing that would afford relief. For some time I had been reading of the Cooper remedies, and finally decided to give the New Discovery preparation a trial. After taking the first bottle I noticed a marked improvement. Five bottles made me entirely well. I can eat anything I wish, and have not been troubled with my stomach since. The dizzy spells disappeared long ago."

"My mother, Mrs. Susan Parkins, is a nurse of long experience. Both she and my father have used the Cooper remedies with splendid results. I will be glad to answer any personal correspondence in regard to my case."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist does not supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will not accept "something just as good." The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

WEST POINT HAILS PROBABLE RETURN TO HAZING DAYS

Law Change Would Permit Moderate Disciplining of the Under Classmen.

NAVY RULE MAY APPLY

Discharge of Cadets Leads to Clamor for Modification of Regulations.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Hazing, which does not impair the health or interfere with the studies of cadets will be permitted at the United States military academy, West Point, if the regulations prepared by officials of the War Department are enacted into law.

The law prohibiting hazing at West Point, passed by Congress in 1901, has acted as a boomerang. Cadets appointed by members who aided in framing the present law have been dismissed from the academy. This kind of medicine does not taste good to the members, so they have put it up to the Secretary of War to pull their chestnuts out of the fire.

Law Cuts Off Three.

Secretary of War Dickinson, nicknamed by the President "the man with the iron jaw," however, believes in strictly enforcing the law. He has enforced the law in the case of three cadets—Edward C. Boykin of Virginia, Robert N. Bodine of Missouri and Harold M. Rodner of New Jersey. During the Christmas holidays these men were dismissed from the academy for hazing. The members of Congress who appointed them have been trying to have them reinstated. But the Secretary of War is a stickler for law and will not reinstate them. He has put the matter up to Congress.

"The War Department does not make the regulations," an army officer of high rank stated today, "but Congress makes them. They evidently have made one law too many."

Neither officials of the War Department nor the superintendent of the Military Academy believe that the present law is a good one. They believe it is too drastic. Congress passed the law following an investigation of the hazing of Cadet Boos in 1901. Some cadets gave Boos tobacco sauce to drink and he asserted his health was injured.

New Regulations Promised.

Since then a number of cadets have been dismissed because the officials had to enforce the law Congress gave them. It is pointed out that if such a thing is possible, there will be safe and sane regulations governing hazing passed by the congress. Senators Briggs of New Jersey and Dupont of Delaware, both graduates of West Point, have the matter in tow in the Senate, while Representative Howell of New Jersey has it under way in the House. Representative Howell is in favor of the regulations governing hazing at the naval academy. This, he maintains, allows the playing of "mild pranks" and moderate hazing. It is known that officials of the War Department have gone over the naval regulations and with a few slight modifications would favor them. These regulations provide that all cases of hazing which are not cruel or injurious in nature shall be proceeded against, dealt with and punished as offenses against the good order and discipline, and for violation and breaches of the rules of the academy.

Such a thing as ducking a man in cold water, making him carry heavy loads, polish shoes, stand on his ear, put his foot in his vest pocket and such other brands of hazing as is enjoyed in colleges and universities will be permitted under the regulations of the nature of those governing Annapolis.

Young Men Glad of Change.

There is much joy being expressed by the younger army officers on duty in Washington over the contemplated change. They say that life at West Point again will be worth suffering for. They maintain that all the hazing done there would not hurt a child, and that only weaklings protest against it. These young officers maintain that the treatment of "plebes" at the Point by the upper class men is tender and gentle and the most considerate.

The Senate has passed a resolution authorizing the application of the modified rules in the case of the three cadets dismissed Christmas week.

HANGING MAN FIGHTS RESCUER

Out of Work, Nothing to Eat, He Begs to Die.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—"I'm tired of life. I can get no work, and I cannot get anything to eat."

This was the plea of a man who was found by a policeman hanging from a tree at Newcastle-under-Lyme.

The constable promptly lifted the man's legs in order to prevent the whole weight of his body hanging on the rope, but the man, who appeared to be determined to take his life, began to work his body round the tree in order to tighten the rope on his neck.

Eventually the policeman climbed on some railings and cut the rope. The man fell down in a semi-conscious condition, but afterwards revived and begged the constable to let him go back and hang himself.

THREE COUPLES POLICE HOLD ARE SUSPECTED AS ELOPERS

Trips to St. Louis to Marry Result in Their Arrest Here.

Three couples who are believed to have eloped spent Wednesday night at Police Headquarters. The brides-to-be were kept in the matron's detention room, while the men slept on hard wood benches in holdover cells.

John Beste, 28 years old, and Mary Genilo, 18, both of Cuba, Ill., were arrested at the Pontiac Hotel on a telegram from the girl's father. They had registered as man and wife and had held the hotel management they had been married for a week. They told the police they intended to be married Thursday.

Pearl Toller and Marie Edwards, waitresses employed at the Gem restaurant at Joplin, Mo., came to St. Louis to marry Joseph Deros and Frank Rose, both of Welch, Ok. Miss Toller's home is at Miami, Ok., and Miss Edwards is the daughter of a farmer residing near Seneca, Mo. They told the police they wanted to see how they would enjoy life in a big city before entering the state of matrimony, and for that reason had decided to postpone the date of their wedding.

Not satisfied with the prospects of metropolitan life the girls had made up their minds to return to the restaurant at Joplin. They were at Union Station waiting for a train when arrested on suspicion of being runaways.

BEAR BITES FEEDER, SHE SUES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 3.—Valma Lewis, the 11-year-old girl who was clawed and chewed by a big bear at Idora Park last September, has, by her father, commenced suit against the Youngstown Park & Falls Street Railway Co. for $50,000 damages. The child was mangled while feeding acorns to the bear.

In the petition the plaintiff alleges that the victim had been encouraged to regard the bear as a pet. At one time she had her photograph taken riding the animal out for exercise. When the bear attacked the child she and one hand so seriously mangled that it had to be partly amputated, while the scalp was completely torn from her head.

HOGS SCARCE, SELL THE CORN

Snow Roads Enable Farmers to Market Grain Cheaply.

COLDWATER, Mich., Feb. 3.—Branch County has had six weeks of good sleighing and at present the roads are in such condition that loads coming to the city from the country are only limited to the capacity of the heavy sleighs now in use.

Large loads of corn are brought to the city, much of it being hauled from ten to fifteen miles. The high price of corn and the inability of most farmers to get cattle and hogs to feed, causes the farmers of Branch County to sell corn instead of buying it.

Merchant Marine Expresses.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The American merchant fleet was increased during January by 74 vessels, 46 of them being of wood and eight of steel construction. Of this number 38 were for Atlantic and Gulf, 38 for great lakes, eight for Pacific and two for Western river service. The largest was the A. A. Augustus, for great lakes service, being of 3800 gross tons.

GET A SANDWICH SIGN SAYING "THIS IS A MARRIED MAN," POLLARD ADVISES WIFE

Suggestion Made by Judge as He Fines Woman $25 for Beating Rival.

Judge Pollard, in fining Mrs. Mamie Jefferies $25 for fighting over her husband with Mrs. Mabel Wagner, Thursday in the Dayton Street Police Court said:

"Madam, have you a sandwich sign for your husband to wear, with the inscription: 'This is a Married Man; All Women Beware!'"

Mrs. Jefferies admitted that she had not, but said she had plenty of scratch on which were inflicted on her face by Mrs. Wagner.

Jefferies is a waiter at the Maryland Hotel. Mrs. Wagner is employed in the woman's cafe. Mrs. Jefferies, alarmed by her husband's failure to come home on time Tuesday night, sought him in a saloon at Eighteenth and Carr streets.

She found him there in a rear room, she testified, with Mrs. Wagner and several other persons.

Mrs. Jefferies admitted lambasting her rival with a handbag for two blocks from the saloon to Seventeenth and Wash. streets. There they were separated by policemen, but met again at Eighteenth and Morgan streets, where Mrs. Jefferies received her scratches, being unarmed because of the destruction of her handbag in the first skirmish.

Mrs. Jefferies lives at 1723 Morgan street, and Mrs. Wagner at 229 Washington avenue.

HOUSEHOLD REMEDIES

The MODEL

at Seventh Street

THE NEW MANAGEMENT'S Re=Construction Sale

Starts Tomorrow Morning

NEW fixtures and equipment throughout our first and third floors, occupied by our men's, young men's and boys' departments, also a new system of lighting, new display windows and a new entrance on Seventh street, are to convert "The Model" into a new store before the Spring season opens. Not as much as one board from the old fixtures shall remain. BUT—this great transformation can't be accomplished when there's a large stock of clothing on our tables, and the shelves and showcases are stocked with the merchandise of the furnishing goods, hat and shoe departments.

We have the promise of the Claes & Lehnbeuter Mfg. Co., who have the contract for making and installing the new fixtures, not to commence work in the store until next Wednesday.

So, without a minute to lose, we start tomorrow morning what must be a "whirlwind" sale of our Clothing. We've got to do an enormous business on each one of these days of grace. You will find an irresistible incentive to buy in some wonderful sale prices. Come now, you men of St. Louis, and help us clear away this big stock of Clothing before the mechanics descend upon us and begin to tear up.

We've figured that it will be better to accept a good-sized loss through making excessively low sale prices than to have the stock on hand when the mechanics take possession here, forcing upon us the risk of certain damage to the stocks by dust and air.

In this remarkable sale you will have a forcible demonstration of our policy of HONEST ADVERTISING. Nothing but facts. Every statement backed by the merchandise. Conforming to this creed of conservative advertising we announce that we will place on sale tomorrow morning fully 1000 (it's impossible to ascertain the exact number as this is being written)

MEN'S AND YOUNG MEN'S

$20 Suits and Overcoats, $10.75

Please note that we wish you to understand positively that $20.00 was the FORMER PRICE. We don't use a wording that fails to be explicit but leaves the inference. To unreservedly, without any strings and in good faith make you an offer to take $9.25 off the regular price of high-grade, stylish $20.00 Suits and Overcoats, is passing the bounds of any price-cutting that would be permitted under ordinary clearance conditions.

Think now! Did you ever hear of a genuine offer so liberal as this? We are quite sure you haven't. Therefore we shall look for you among our customers at this Re-Construction Sale these next few days.

It's a splendid assortment of very desirable Clothing. Late styles and patterns; garments produced by America's foremost clothes makers; perfect fitting; suitable for wear in future seasons. In addition, remember that you get a $20.00 Suit or Overcoat for $10.75, an actual saving of $9.25.

Men's and Young Men's Suits and Overcoats that were formerly at other and different prices, suffer the same fate as the $20.00 line, the reductions being proportionate.

THE daily newspapers of St. Louis a few days ago gave considerable prominence to news articles telling about the alterations to be made at The Model. Below we reprint extracts from the articles in some of the papers:

FROM THE POST-DISPATCH.

The arrangement and appearance of the interior of the store are to be changed completely, and there will be a new entrance on Seventh street. The contract calls for the largest installation in the United States of modern clothing cabinets for men's and boys' clothing. New fixtures for the men's furnishings, hat and shoe departments on the first floor will be in mission style. A new lighting system, embracing new and novel features, will be installed. Mahogany inlaid with hard-woods, and leaded glass in beautiful designs and colors, will be distinctive features of the new show windows to be put in on the entire Washington avenue and Seventh street frontage.

FROM THE REPUBLIC.

Sweeping alterations will so change the appearance of this popular store that even the oldest patron will hardly recognize it. A new entrance will be made on Seventh street that will help to make The Model the equal of any store in the United States in point of handiness and convenience. Architectural beauty and utility will be carefully looked after in the remodeling. The contract calls for the largest installation of new and up-to-date clothing cabinets in the United States. Part of the cabinets will be placed on the first floor in the men's clothing department and the rest will be installed on the third floor, where boys' and young men's garments will be handled. New fixtures are to be put in place for the hat and shoe departments, and these will be arranged along the west wall of the building. The whole scheme of the interior is to be worked out in mission style, woodwork and of the best quality. Mahogany inlaid with various hardwoods and leaded glass in beautiful designs and colorings, will be used in all the purely decorative finishings. The show windows on the corner of Washington avenue and Seventh street promise to equal if not surpass anything of the kind in the city. In order to make the transformation from the old to the new complete a new and distinctive system of lighting is to be installed.

MOTHERS, ATTENTION!

To get your children to learn music is hard work. You doubtless find it so? Well, there is a way. You know how the boys and girls like to "play a piece" on the piano the first thing? And the teachers of music say "No. That will hurt their progress. Wait till they have learned their scales. Keep them practicing every day!"—tummy-tum, dum, dumty-un, dough-ray, me, far-so-la—the 'em out, make them take music like they hate to write compositions.

The way we have for getting them to take an interest in music is simply to let them play—play on the Angelus, same as they play with their toys and in their games—make it amusement for them—make them feel that it's fun, not work, a pleasure, not a task. They take to it like a duck to water. Boys and girls only seven or eight years old sit down at the Angelus and play anything they wish—all the sweet, familiar airs children love, we love, and even opera and classical music. Thus they learn that music is a delight, for playing the Angelus is like skating, dancing or playing ball—easy enough to start right, but to do it right, takes time and practice. That's where the music teacher comes in. The boy and the girl with an Angelus gets to want to know more about music and wants to take lessons, wants to practice on the piano. The Angelus is a piano—as well as a player-piano. It's the two combined.

SHAFT UNVEILED TO GOEBEL AS HIS BROTHER IS BURIED

Double Rites for Slain Governor and His Most Ardent Defender.

By Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 3.—The tenth anniversary of the death of William Goebel, who was the central figure in one of the most stirring chapters in the latter days of Kentucky's history, was observed today by the unveiling of a marble and bronze monument above the grave in the State Cemetery here. Coincident with the ceremony of unveiling, the body of his brother, Arthur Goebel, who devoted his life after the assassination to an effort to convict the man he believed guilty of the murder and who died just after his work had come to naught, was laid to rest beside that of his brother.

The Kentucky General Assembly adjourned as a mark of respect and attended the dual exercises in a body. A great throng gathered round the monument.

Former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, who as Lieutenant-Governor, succeeded to the executive chair at William Goebel's death, was master of ceremonies.

Miss Lillie Goebel of Phoenix, Ariz., niece of the decedent, cut a cord releasing the large American flag which veiled the statue.

MADE MAD BY RELIGION, ONCE RICH MAN KILLS SELF

Prominent Christian Scientist Almost Certain to Have Drowned.

UNDER OBSERVATION

He Had Had a Row With Mrs. Eddy and Also Mrs. Stetson—Wife Left Him.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Although it is almost certain that Henry Pennington Toler, former Christian Science leader, a wealthy man and member of many clubs, killed himself by leaping into the East River off Ward Island, the police and hospital authorities today kept up an exhaustive search for the missing patient of the Manhattan State Hospital. The search will be continued until there is positive proof that Toler is dead.

Under the impression that he was to be put in close confinement in the hospital, where he had been a parole patient since last July and permitted the freedom of the grounds on the east side of the island, Toler alighted his guards Tuesday morning and disappeared.

A few minutes after his disappearance a watchman stationed at the south end of the island saw a man leap into the East River and a short struggle with the swift currents of Hell Gate, go down.

As Toler is the only person—patient or employee—missing from the hospital, it is almost certain he was the man the watchman saw plunge into the river.

Was Successful Broker.

Seven years ago Toler was one of the most successful brokers in the financial district. When he was a member of the firm of Toler & Higgins he was rated as a millionaire. When he embraced the Christian Science faith his partner left him. Toler undertook the task of restoring the "Town of New Harlem" to its "rightful heirs" and spent the best part of his fortune in the work. He withdrew from the undertaking when Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy requested him to do so, and a short time later was declared insane.

During the recent Christian Science controversy Toler was a supporter of Mrs. Augusta Stetson. Her name had figured in the enterprise to restore the "Town of New Harlem" to 400 or more heirs, and after Toler's withdrawal from the case Mrs. Laura A. Skeels brought suit against Toler and Mrs. Stetson to recover money she claimed was lost by intrusting her affairs to Toler and Mrs. Stetson.

In an affidavit Mrs. Skeels stated that Toler while under the influence of malicious animal magnetism, had engaged in a physical encounter with Mrs. Stetson in the reading rooms of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, administering a black eye.

Separated From Wife.

It was Christian Science that separated Toler from his wife in 1904, just as it had separated him and his partner the previous year. Mrs. Toler, who before her marriage was Miss Genevieve Wheeler, believed her husband was devoting too much of his life and money to Christian Science and they parted, reaching a financial agreement. While Toler was arranging to start suit against the City of New York for the recovery of the Harlem lands, friends who were not of the Christian Science faith began to have doubts as to his mental soundness.

One claim made by Toler to his several thousand clients was that the passage from the Scriptures, "And after Abimelech there arose to defend Israel, Tola," referred to himself.

Toler's insanity reached such an advanced stage early last July that his brother, Hugh Toler, had him placed in the psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital for observation. Toler declared he was being attacked by malicious animal magnetism by Mrs. Eddy's short struggle in the head and asserted the pains were caused in the "malpractice," as he termed it, that was being directed against him. On July 21 Toler was committed to the Manhattan State Hospital.

NEW COLISEUM MANAGER TO MAKE IT TRADE SHOW PLACE

F. W. Payne Proposes It Shall Be Madison Square Garden of the West.

F. W. Payne, originator of the National Business Show, has been chosen manager of the Coliseum. Guy E. Goltzman, who resigned as manager six weeks ago, to resume the practice of law, will be attorney for the Coliseum company.

There were many applicants for the position of manager. The selection of Payne means that the Coliseum will be utilized as a place for business rather than theatrical shows.

"I propose to make the Coliseum the Madison Square Garden of the West," says Payne, who until Wednesday had been connected with Madison Square Garden as a promoter. He has also promoted big trade shows in Chicago. Payne is 32 years old. He will move his home from New York to St. Louis at once.

LEAVES INCOME OF $10,000 TO CARE FOR HER PET DOGS

That Sum Is as Much as Woman's Husband Will Get From the Estate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Mina Koch loved dogs so when she came to die, leaving an estate valued at $50,000, she gave the income of $10,000 to her three dogs for life, which is as much as she left to her husband, Henry Koch. If the dogs die first, Edward Baker, a son by a former marriage, is to get the principal of the $10,000. But the income is to go to the support of the dogs and their caretaker during their lives.

Mrs. Koch was interested in the work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to which she left $3000. Six relatives are not mentioned in her will.

To guard against her dogs being neglected, Mrs. Koch instructs her executor to create a trust fund of $10,000 and pay the income of it to her housekeeper, Emil Meese. The testatrix describes that her housekeeper shall use the income from the fund to care for the dogs and herself, making it clear that the bequest is primarily to take care of the dogs. Her husband is to have the income of another fund of $10,000, the principal of which is to go to her son after the husband's death.

STOMACH MISERY AND INDIGESTION IS ENDED BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diaphepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Diaphepsin troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or

Indigestion in five minutes. Diaphepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Bilelessness or Constipation. This city will have many Diaphepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be "cranky" about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and Indigestion. * * *

WOMAN MEDICAL STUDENT WHO IS 22 YEARS OLD HAS NEVER TASTED A MORSEL OF MEAT

Is Healthy and Robust on a Diet of Cereals, Fruit, Eggs and Milk.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—Miss Ora Kress has never eaten a morsel of meat in all her life of 22 years, so it matters not to her how high the Beef Trust balloons prices.

Miss Kress, a student at the Woman's Medical College, is a daughter of Dr. D. E. Kress, superintendent of the Seventh Day Adventist Sanitarium, Washington, D. C. He strongly advocates a modified vegetarianism, which permits the consumption of milk, butter and eggs. He brought up his daughter in accordance with this dietetic theory.

Miss Kress is healthy, robust, and cheerful and is a great favorite with her fellow medical students. She lives on cereals, milk, butter, eggs, ice cream, fruit and some candy.

"To see people gorging themselves on meat, poultry and fish is repulsive to me," said Miss Kress today. "Why kill living things for food when the earth is generous with her bounty of healthful, nourishing food?"

"Do you believe in vegetarianism because it is healthful or because it is humane?" she was asked.

"Both," she answered.

"Do you wear plumes or feathers?"

"Oh, no; that would be inconsistent."

"Do you find your light food nourishing and satisfying?"

"Do I look underfed?" she retorted, laughing. "And remember I work hard at my studies and mental exertion is exhausting."

DENUNCIATION OF CHILDREN IN ANTI-LIQUOR WAR

Pastor Criticizes Methods at
"Dry Elections" Before
Model License League.

"REFORMERS" SCORED

Organization Head Declares
Anti-Saloon League Workers Are Corrupt.

The use of children in local option and prohibition campaigns, for the purpose of influencing the votes of men was denounced by the Rev. Jacob E. Meeker, pastor of the Compton Hill Congregational Church in his address Thursday at the opening session of the Model License League's national convention.

T. M. Gilmore, president of the league, who spoke before Pastor Meeker, denounced the Anti-Saloon League as "the most corrupt, distasteful and unscrupulous organization that ever undertook to control the political affairs of the nation; the most gigantic graft ever conceived by unprincipled mercenary." Thursday morning's session in Parlor B of the Planters Hotel was the beginning of a two days' meeting. Frank Harris, former State Senator, is the principal speaker Thursday afternoon, and the Rev. William A. Watson of Riverhead, L. I., is to speak at a meeting in the same place Thursday night, to which women are invited. Mayor Shank of Indianapolis and the Rev. Wallace M. Short of Kansas City are among Friday's speakers.

Denunciation of Children.
Pastor Meeker, in speaking of what he termed the "children's campaigns," declared:

"We all know that a child cannot vote and that he cannot reason upon these great issues; and that he is merely the tool of his parents and does whatever he does upon their instruction or at the instigation of the ones using him. And yet we know that he is tremendously effective in a way, and the effect is in the turning of the attention of the 'voters' from the matter at hand to a sentimentalism which the average man would not permit in his decision upon any other question."

"This is the method which some evangelists use in stirring the town to white heat in what he calls his great religious revival. Instead of presenting the great principles of life and of righteousness with the tremendous appeal of Christianity and of the Christ, he crams his sermons with repulsive stories of impossible escapes from scenes, with half-breath escapes from burning buildings, with 'Little Eva' stories of children until, having assuaged the emotions of men, they surrender to his wishes."

"The aftermath of such 'evangelism' is found to be not what is desired. The result of a lawyer adopts the same method before his jury."

Warms Against Corruption.
He then warned his hearers, most of them men connected with brewing and distilling interests, against tolerating "corrupt methods in elections bearing on the liquor question. Such practices," he said, had caused many communities to go "dry."

"The saloon as it is now," said the minister, "must go. American society has outgrown it, and will no longer permit such an institution as it is at present to remain. The program of prohibition is moving in the right direction. I am not sure that you have gone far enough, but at least the beginning is good. If we can get a single State to take hold of this question and go to the bottom of it and fearlessly and resolutely reconstruct its entire laws regarding this issue, that the other states will quickly fall into line."

"The program to which Pastor Meeker gave his partial endorsement was set forth by Gilmore in his address under these four heads:

1. Adoption of laws under which any license now existing shall be continued until a majority of the people shall decide, by their votes, to cancel it.
2. Limit future licenses to one for every 100 inhabitants.
3. Reasonable license fees, to keep saloon keepers from necessity of selling inferior liquor, violating the law of being active in politics.
4. Licenses to be suspended for 30 days on first conviction of violating the law and canceled on second conviction.

Gilmore said the Model License League was started and largely sustained by brewers, distillers and wine makers, but that this did not alter the fact that it was doing a needed work of reform. He then attacked the prohibition movement and censured the Anti-Saloon League. About 20 men attended the opening session. Mayor Krasemann was to have made an address of welcome, but was prevented by official business from appearing at the time set for the opening.

Mayor Shank of Indianapolis was the center of much interest because of his recent comments because of his recent rule requiring offending saloon keepers to go to church to save their licenses. He showed a certificate, signed by the Rev. James Hinson, stating that M. L. Cummings, an Indianapolis saloon keeper, had attended a service at the Columbus M. E. Church, and had listened to the sermon attentively. Mayor H. A. Schuck of Chicago, too, one of the speakers on Friday afternoon's program, was another man who attracted much attention.

ST. LOUIS BELLES AND BEAUX OF 1910 DANCING OLD-TIME MINUET AT BAZAR

GEORGE M'MANUS WILL DRAW FOR CHARITY BAZAR

Creator of Newlyweds Will Be Seen in the Apron Booth.

George McManus, cartoonist for the Post-Dispatch and the New York World, creator of the Newlyweds, will be the chief attraction at the Collectum charity bazaar Thursday evening. McManus will hold forth in the apron booth and show the crowd how he draws the pictures that make half the United States laugh. There was real classical dancing at the bazaar Wednesday night. The stately, graceful old minuet was danced by a company of handsome young women and little young men of the West End. The minuet was danced again in answer to applause. The powdered hair and colonial gowns of the girls with the knee breeches and bright-colored satin coats of the men made a pretty picture.

The dance was directed by Jacob Mahler. The young women who participated were: Katherine Gratz, Margaret Lee, Lucille Cates, Mimam Benoit, Susan Rebecca Carleton, Frances Wickham Bryan, Harriet La Motte, Malotte Houser, Aenesta Turner, Gladys Korens, Effie Bagnell, Ann Drew and Caroline Lackland. Long after the dance the young women, dressed 160 years behind the times, remained the chief attraction as they mingled with the crowd.

It was a good night for St. Philomena's Technical School, the estimated receipts being $2000, despite the rain, which in all likelihood affected the attendance. Miss Olive Rae was the belle of the bazaar Tuesday evening. Judge A. A. O'Halloran of the mock court so found and because she didn't have enough money to meet a commensurate fine for such an offense, she was compelled to work it out as clerk of the court. Miss Pearl H. Ann was put to work writing out complaints.

Vandeville Show Attracts.
Judge Daniel G. Taylor was found guilty of being the Beau Brummel of the evening and for being severely lectured was being fined. He paid and was released, but warned to be on his good behavior. Barney Frauenthal was declared to be the encyclopedia of the Collectum and the court assessed him for all branches of which he was master. Frauenthal tried to talk the court out of it and ran up a big bill for the costs. He borrowed money from his wife and paid the costs and the fine was suspended while he kept quiet.

Charles A. Sitts, Tom Arnold, Henry Harris and George R. Tate threw themselves on the mercy of the court. The court said it didn't have any mercy. Mme. Caratta, the midwife, is a special attraction at the vaudeville show managed by Mrs. George Miltenberger. A booth that attracted attention was that of St. Agnes' Parish, where 15 young women, attired as Spanish señoritas, sold cigars.

RABIES EPIDEMIC IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—Health Officer Landis has declared officially that an epidemic of rabies exists in Cincinnati, and an ordinance is to be passed compelling the muzzling of dogs. Dr. A. B. Cole, Pasteur expert and pathologist at the City Hospital, has treated 23 persons bitten by dogs in Cincinnati and vicinity within 10 days. One theory is that the meat strike has caused scarcity of bones, without which dogs cannot thrive.

Miss Caroline Lackland, Clarence Hopkins King.

Miss Margaret Lee, Murray Carleton Jr.

Miss Frances Wickham Bryan, Breckinridge Long.

Miss Aenesta Turner, Harry C. Carr.

Miss Lucille Cates, Burkyne Wilson, New York.

While her parents thought she was learning to love another man, Mrs. Meta Mapel was only failing more deeply in love with her divorced husband, Lewis A. Mapel.

The other man's calls, it now appears, were only a screen behind which the young woman hid her meetings with Mapel, to whom her parents were opposed. The other man seems to have understood this, for he was the first to offer his congratulations after Mapel and Mrs. Mapel were remarried Wednesday afternoon by Judge Williams, who granted Mrs. Mapel a divorce last August.

The second marriage was a surprise to the bride's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwartz of 2126 Nebraska avenue. Mrs. Mapel left their home Wednesday without a hat to go to a butcher shop.

She went to the store and bought meat, which she left at the home of a relative at 702 Arsenal street, promising to return for it. She did not return, and the relatives sent the meat to the Schwartz home in time for a belated dinner. In the meantime Mrs. Mapel and her husband were celebrating their second wedding. Their first marriage, in 1904, was also an elopement.

Was a Smoke Inspector.
Mapel has lived, since the divorce, with his father at 825 Nebraska avenue. He was until recently a deputy smoke inspector; he designed a smoke preventing device, and bound himself not to tell anyone about it until the patent was obtained. He worked with the others at night on the details of the invention, and he says that certain persons persuaded his wife that he was neglecting her.

He was unable to explain his absence, and was piqued at her distrust of him, and the situation developed which led to the divorce.

Mrs. Mapel says now she understands, and that she hopes a wife's right and a patent right will not conflict in her case again.

CONVICTS FIGHT FLAMES IN JOLIET PRISON POWER HOUSE

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 3.—The State Penitentiary power house here took fire today and the engine room was destroyed. There was great excitement among the convicts, but no attempts to escape. The cause of the fire is not known.

At the first alarm, given by an engineer, the convict fire guard was rushed to the scene and the other prisoners marched quickly to their cell rooms. The Joliet fire department also responded.

Later, as the fire was placed under control, the prisoners returned to the shops. There was no panic. Attempts to escape would have been unavailing as the power house, which was burning, is within the prison walls.

An inquest was begun Thursday and it was found his skull had been fractured at the base.

DECISION IN RUTLEDGE SUIT IS WITHHELD

Jealousy Charged and Defended by Counsel in Divorce Action.

Evidence has been completed in the Rutledge divorce hearing and the case is now under advisement. Judge Shields allowed the attorneys one hour for arguments. Attorney Cullen spoke for the plaintiff, James E. Rutledge, and Attorney Campbell Allison for the defendant, Mrs. Mary Rutledge.

Attorney Cullen claimed that the charges Mrs. Rutledge made against her husband were due to an "overwrought imagination." "When jealousy takes hold of a woman," said the attorney, "it is uncontrollable. Trifles light as air are to the jealous confirmation strong as holy writ. Everything Mr. Rutledge did was subject to suspicion by his wife, owing to her jealous mind."

Attorney Allison replied that women, since the foundation of the world, have been jealous. "And they have forgiven and will forgive," he added. "Mr. Rutledge has brought upon himself the necessary and natural consequences of his own acts. He turned against his wife, not she against him."

In regard to the daughter, Mrs. Rutledge's heart for her and follows her even though she has turned against her. Should she ever feel the need of a mother's love, let her come unto her mother."

Stamina in Men and How to Possess It.
(From "Man's Maladies.")

A prominent physician being asked the question: "What are the things in life a man needs most?" answered: "Physical health, strong nerves, mental efficiency, money and social success." Any man possessing these five attributes is a success. Any man possessing the first three can be a success and have the other two. Possession of a sound body with strong nerves is really the requirement which men need most. Men need stamina, courage, staying qualities, endurance and perseverance, but in order to have these qualities the nerves must be strong and keenly sensitive to every emotion. When a man has forebodings, sensations of fear, timidity, accompanied with such symptoms as trembling hands and limbs, weak voice, nervousness, sleeplessness, numbness, dizziness, heart palpitation, restlessness, forgetfulness, melancholia, weariness without cause, and many others of a similar nature, it cannot be expected that he will be a success financially, socially or otherwise.

Strong virile magnetism comes only to those whose nerves are properly nourished in a sound body. Nature in her wisdom has supplied certain extracts, essences, etc., which, if properly blended, will restore a normal keenness to the nerves so that any man can feel the rich red blood surging through his body, supplying all the elements necessary to derive the most out of life in all its various phases.

For the benefit of those temporarily deficient in nerve strength the following ingredients can be obtained of any good druggist and prepared in the privacy of home. Purchase three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound in a six ounce bottle. Add one ounce of compound fluid balsam-wort, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamon) and one ounce compound essence cardiol. Mix. Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and to complete restoration to normal follow.

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless and colorless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 25 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 8 E. Cor. 5th and Washington av.

CITY HOSPITAL PHYSICIANS BUILDING MAN A NEW FACE

Surgeons Are Making Over Physiognomy Crushed by Wheel of Loaded Wagon.

When Thomas Herbert of 4300 Evans avenue leaves the City Hospital he will have a brand new face. Half a dozen physicians and surgeons are now making the new face for him, and they promise such an improvement over the face that nature gave him that even his best girl will not know him.

Herbert is 28 years old and a driver for the St. Louis Transfer Co. While driving a wagon across the bridge late Wednesday he fell off.

The hind wheel of the wagon, which was heavily loaded, passed over Herbert's face. The hospital physicians found that 33 bones in his face were broken, and that in fixing him up it would be necessary to remodel his face along entirely new lines. They are now wiring the bones so they will knit, readjusting the flesh so as to give the face symmetry and character, and trying to get the teeth of the upper and lower jaws rearranged to match.

Negro Wants White Sympathy.
LONOKE, Ark., Feb. 3.—Here is the way John C. Harris, a negro, announces the opening of a "colored" restaurant. "I have opened a colored restaurant back of the new hotel for the benefit of our colored people, and I ask the entire sympathy and indulgence of the white people of the town."

A prominent physician being asked the question: "What are the things in life a man needs most?" answered: "Physical health, strong nerves, mental efficiency, money and social success." LEO FERGUSON CAUGHT IN RAID OF MONROE CLUB

Motorcycle Policeman Went
With Party to Suspected
Place in Automobile.

Motorcycle Policeman Leo Ferguson figured prominently in a raid on the Monroe Club, 1034 North Ninth street, at 4 a. m. Thursday. He was among those arrested. The others included an actress, a seamstress, a sewing machine operator, a student and a chauffeur. With the exception of the chauffeur all rode to the Central District Police Station in a patrol wagon.

At 3:30 a. m. Sergt. Henry Harrington and Patrolmen Lane and McGuire saw an automobile party stop in front of the club. Three men and three women composed the party. Sergt. Harrington attempted to follow them into the club, but admission was denied.

The officers remained in the neighborhood until the door was opened and then made a rush inside.

The members of the automobile party were seated in a private room, but there was no evidence of drinks having been served, and Harrington was dubious about making any arrests until he recognized Ferguson.

"What are you doing in here?" he asked, addressing the motorcycle cop. "Just getting warm," responded Ferguson.

"Have you got your speedometer with you?" asked the Sergeant.

"No, I'm off duty," Ferguson replied. "A policeman is never off duty," said Harrington. "I'll have to take you to the station."

The patrol wagon was called and Ferguson and his friends were loaded in. One of the policemen accompanied the chauffeur to the station in the auto.

At the station the women gave their names as Elsie Dietz and Elvira Swartz, machine operator and seamstress, living at 822 West Belle place; Winnie Edgerton, actress, stopping at the Regent hotel; John T. Cassidy, student, of 1403 Webster avenue; and Ralph Burke, chauffeur, of 2511 Hebert street, were the men with Ferguson. Howard Hitchcock of East St. Louis and James C. Fitzgerald, bartender at the Monroe Club, were also arrested.

Least. Hears after releasing the prisoners, there being no evidence of wrongdoing against any of them, forwarded a two-page report to Chief Creasy concerning Ferguson's presence in the club.

Ferguson is married and resides at 1071 South King's highway. He said he had accepted an invitation from Burke to join the party in an auto spin and had stopped at the club to get warm.

AN AERONAUTIC AUTOCRAT.

The insurgency in the Aero Club of America should spread over the country. It should contaminate the other aero clubs which occupy singular positions of subordination to the New York club.

Having been the first club organized in America the New York organization became a member of the International Federation and was recognized as the representative of American aeronautic interests. But since then a number of American aero clubs have been organized. Every large city has one, yet the Aero Club of America retains its authority as the sole representative of American aeronauts in the International body. Through this authority it assumes dictatorship of all American events as well as of American participation in International events.

Why should all American aero clubs be subject to the government of the New York Aero Club? Why should Courtland Bishop be the czar of American aeronauts? The United States should have a federation of aero clubs whose common interests should be controlled by a board chosen by the clubs or their representatives. This governing board representing all the clubs should have supreme authority for the United States in national and international matters. Let us have a democratic, not an autocratic government of air sports.

The high cost of living troubles many, and the cost of high living troubles a few, but what grinds most Americans is just the plain cost of plain living on current wages.

SENATOR STONE'S VINDICATION.

Gov. Hadley cannot deny it. Senator Stone has been vindicated. The majority for vindication, as unofficially reported, is 3754. It is a great triumph for Stone. It is a great humiliation for Hadley.

But Hadley deserves no sympathy. He issued the challenge. He threw the cigarette stub into the firework. He went to the people of the Sixth District with charges and accusations. He courted a decision deliberately and according to the fixed rules of Republican strategy. He declared Stone was the beneficiary—by implication, the guilty beneficiary—of election frauds. In possession of this authoritative information, with proofs promised, could the Sixth District voters have been so foolish as to consider the petty issues of Cannonism, Aldrichism, robber tariffs or broken party pledges? Certainly not. They were out to settle the Hadley-Stone controversy and they settled it.

With this mighty question out of the way the ship of state has come up on an even keel again. We may now resume the discussion of lesser questions such as the cost of living and the elements that enter into it, which, while of small public moment, are nevertheless of great domestic concern. But we rejoice that Senator Stone has been vindicated. He can use all the vindication he can get.

Have the shippers been hiding their bank accounts that they are afraid of the Terminal?

LIFE IN NEW YORK.

Three little items caught from the current of the news, serve to show to what extent the stress of competition has been carried in and around New York. Dr. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, reported recently that oysters are transplanted from their beds in the sea to the mouths of sewers so that they can feed upon sewage and be rapidly fattened. Certain railway companies have dismissed trainmen weighing over 180 pounds to get rid of the extra weight. Certain popular restaurants, it is said, will no longer employ good-looking girls as waitresses, because men linger to flirt with them instead of bolting their lunches and making way for others.

Competition has its obvious advantages. It is good to transform a lean oyster into a fat one, a blue point into a saddle rock. It is good to lighten the weight of a street car and economize the power of an engine house. It is also good to quicken the quick lunch and have the young American hustler back to his work instead of lingering over his coffee to ask a pretty blonde to bring him angel food. We repeat, all these things are good, but nevertheless they are not worth what it costs to get them. Better a blue point though as small as a California oyster, if fed in the brine of the sea, than a swollen monster of the sewers. Better a good trainman though a trifle fat, than a poor one as lean as Cassius. Better a lunch on angel food served by a waitress of the normal American loveliness, though it take an hour to eat it, than a five-minute feed slammed on the table by a woman homely enough to kill the appetite of a crocodile. New York should halt awhile. She is overworking the legitimate procession of life.

USING TAFT.

In justification of his recommendation that the second class postage rate for magazines be raised from one to five cents a pound President Taft pointed out that it costs the Government nine cents a pound to carry them. The remedy to increase the rate was the obvious and simple one even if it would revolutionize a great business which has grown up and developed under the one-cent rate in force.

Such minor matters as driving some legitimate industries out of business, reducing the profits of others and losing to the Government the profitable postal business which the magazines originate might all be passed as regrettable but necessary consequences if it were not permissible to consider the fairness and the honesty of the cost of carriage to the Government.

But as a matter of fact what the Government pays the railroads is in many instances, at least, so exorbitant as to amount to graft. The $50,000 extortion by the St. Louis Terminal Association is a case in point. The American Magazine reports that the express companies carry its product from New York to Chicago for $50 a ton. This sum meets the profits of both express companies and railroads. It is reported that for the same service the railroads charge the Government $100 a ton.

If this is true or half true or even quarter true Mr. Taft's plan becomes one to perpetuate a railroad graft and punish the muck-raking and insurgent magazines and only incidentally to reduce the postoffice deficit. It would be a preposterous conclusion that Mr. Taft was aware of this when he wrote the recommendation into his message and instructed Attorney-General Wickham to prepare such a bill for introduction. But it is not preposterous to conclude that the Aldrich-Cannon gang, under plea of reducing a deficit, would be anything but tickled to death to aid the railroads and punish the muck-rakers. The gang is making use of Mr. Taft.

Another election like that of the Sixth District and even Joe Cannon will cease to support Jocoannism.

DANGER AHEAD.

"The Democrats had a much more efficient organization than the Republicans as is shown by the fact that they polled 90 per cent of their vote." This is all the explanation of the Republican disaster that Gov. Hadley would offer. For the rest he significantly referred questioners to Washington where National issues are made. But there is another explanation: The Republican party's record was so damaging that 30 per cent of the Republican voters would not vote for the party's "standpat" candidate; they stayed at home.

Excuses and evasion do not help the Republican situation. The only safety for the party lies in a frank, honest recognition of blunders and a swift reform. The Democratic landslide was a Republican protest against Republican wrongdoing. If the leaders are too blind to see the warning the protest will become a revolution.

Glavis may know only one side of the story, as President Taft remarked, but he seems to have guessed the other with considerable accuracy.

THE INCOME TAX.

When the Republican regulars were fixing the tariff to suit the greed of the privileged classes, they resorted to many tricks to fool the people. "We intend to tax wealth," said they, "as much as we tax poverty. We will have a constitutional amendment enabling us to tax the incomes of the rich and then we will make plutocracy pay its share of the public burdens." The people have been waiting the fulfillment of that promise, but all at once the standpat organs have become silent about it.

Alagham led the way in favor of the proposed amendment notwithstanding the fact that the amendment was put forth as a partisan Republican measure and Alabama is Democratic. Kentucky has followed the example of Alabama; but other states show hostility. Illinois is in session, but it shows no sign of endorsing his pledge to tax plutocracy. Gov. Hughes of New York is a good Republican of the standpat variety, but he refuses to stand for the amendment. The campaign are broken. There is to be no attempt on the part of the Republicans to tax wealth as well as poverty; but when the campaign opens next fall, there will be a wonderful outburst of renewed pledges on the subject.

Moved by the wall of high prices some historical crank has published the facts that in the days of Henry VIII of England, oxen sold at about $5 each. Sheep 60 cents and hogs 90 cents with grouse at 16 cents a dozen; but what's the use? Nobody in our time wishes to be as fat and gross as Henry was.

Coal operators in Ohio and in western Pennsylvania have decided they cannot raise wages this year; but it doesn't appear they reached any such decision as regards the price of coal.

Another fearful loss of life in a wrecked mine, another argument for better supervision of mines; we shall get there by and by.

Kansas City is planning Sunday concerts as a relief from the week-day police chorus conducted by Gov. Hadley.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Women Not Extravagant.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In the last Sunday issue of the Post-Dispatch there was an article on "Banks and Women's Extravagance." It said that out of the $2,230 accounts, $5,000 were women's, and that did not include women who deposited the family savings. If every man who accuses women of extravagance would only find out the facts before giving his opinion of it, I am sure it would be different. I could illustrate a dozen ways in which he is the most extravagant, but one will do.

I am a barber's wife and I know for one thing that should most every man's wife demand the same amount of money weekly for beautifying herself that he spends in the barber shop. He would think she had lost her mind, or worse. A $15-a-week man comes in the shop, gets a shave, 15 cents, twice a week at the least. On Saturday a haircut or trim, 35 cents; massage, 25 cents. They think nothing of paying 15 cents for a spoonful of tonic in their hair. He gets up with a pink face and a smooth head and the bill amounts to as little as 50 cents. I have often seen it $1.50.

Just let the public servants be sincere in their declarations that they are going to protect the people from the beef and other food trusts, why don't they abolish the cold storage houses, where they keep food away from the people for outrageous prices? The human creatures are not only starving the people all over the country, but poisoning them as well by keeping food stored for months and years. It would be impossible to regulate them, as evidence on all sides proves that they are capable of anything and would lie about the length of time foods were stored, and it would all be a farce, and the people are now tired of such business. As I said before, if our public servants do not abolish them it will prove they are not sincere; then the people should make use of the initiative and referendum and pass laws to this effect at once, as it is now time they made use of this power. Down the monsters! E PLURIBUS UNUM.

Regulation Must Be Tried.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
If our public servants are sincere in their declarations that they are going to protect the people from the beef and other food trusts, why don't they abolish the cold storage houses, where they keep food away from the people for outrageous prices? How the Farmer Is Gouged.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I read in your paper an article headed "Is It Anarchy?" from the Springfield Republican. It is anarchy, nothing else. All this talk of high prices and boycott is sickening. If the people in the cities have so much trouble in spending their high wages, why don't they come out in the country and work for nothing? I have some of the best land on my farm not worked in three years and have had hundreds of bushels of corn rotting in the field. But the farmer boys are going to the city to get union wages for eight hours a day. Where is the farmers' "anarchy" or monopoly? If I come to the city with eggs, asking 30 cents, at which price a farmer could never earn 50 cents a day, the city people may say I am crazy, or I ought to be ashamed, but that the poor have to pay 40 cents is none of my business. I hauled my potatoes of the past year to St. Louis, Mo., 17 miles, and sold them at 50 cents a bushel, for which the commission men gouged the people 15 cents. I sold hundreds of bushels of spinach, pecked solid and full measure, at 10 cents. About three years ago I sent one bushel of apples to a friend in Iowa, by express, 300 miles. The express company in St. Louis gouged me $1.25. There are many places in the country where the farmers are only getting 33 for cattle. Why is it that the citizens complain about the farmer getting too much? Show me!

This is true, but the farmer is not a fool or a slave; they are getting absolutely nothing for their work! If a farmer has to buy anything in the city the monopolists just announce their price and the farmer has to pay or go without. The farmers are forced to combine and I wonder who will hold out the longest, the farmers or the combines, who are ruling this country now. FRED LEGTIS, Valley Park, Mo.

Who Waked Steve Up?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
One Stephen Taylor De Kin, apparently aroused from long slumber, calls up the Post-Dispatch to ask "Where can you find a man in the United States who, since the year 1864, had a following of fully 6,000,000 of his fellow citizens?" Reference by the inquirer is made to William Jennings Bryan.

Now, there is the mighty Taft, in the office of President of the United States at this time, who not long ago walloped this same William Jennings by the tune of nearly a million of votes of his "fellow citizens." In that same year, 1896, Maj. McKinley knocked the socks off William Jennings by more than 500,000 popular votes.

"Logical leader," "unconquered king!" Rats. What's the matter, Stephen? Turn over and take another nap. DEMOCRAT.

Let No Guilty Man Escape.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your editorial in Saturday's Post-Dispatch on the police association loot was certainly a good one and met with a response in the heart of every honest person.

A professional burglar is to be honored when compared to a man or set of men who are stealing the substance of their dead brother officers' widows and orphans—men who banded themselves together for the purpose of rendering assistance to each other in times of need. As I know, it was no small hardship on the men with large families of little children who were needing shoes and other actual necessities that the $2 paid on the death of a policeman in connection with the 31 monthly dues might have bought for them, and a great number of those men only receive $30 per month. Little did they think that their money was going toward buying diamonds for the men in whom they placed implicit trust.

JULES MEAGHER.

Our State University.

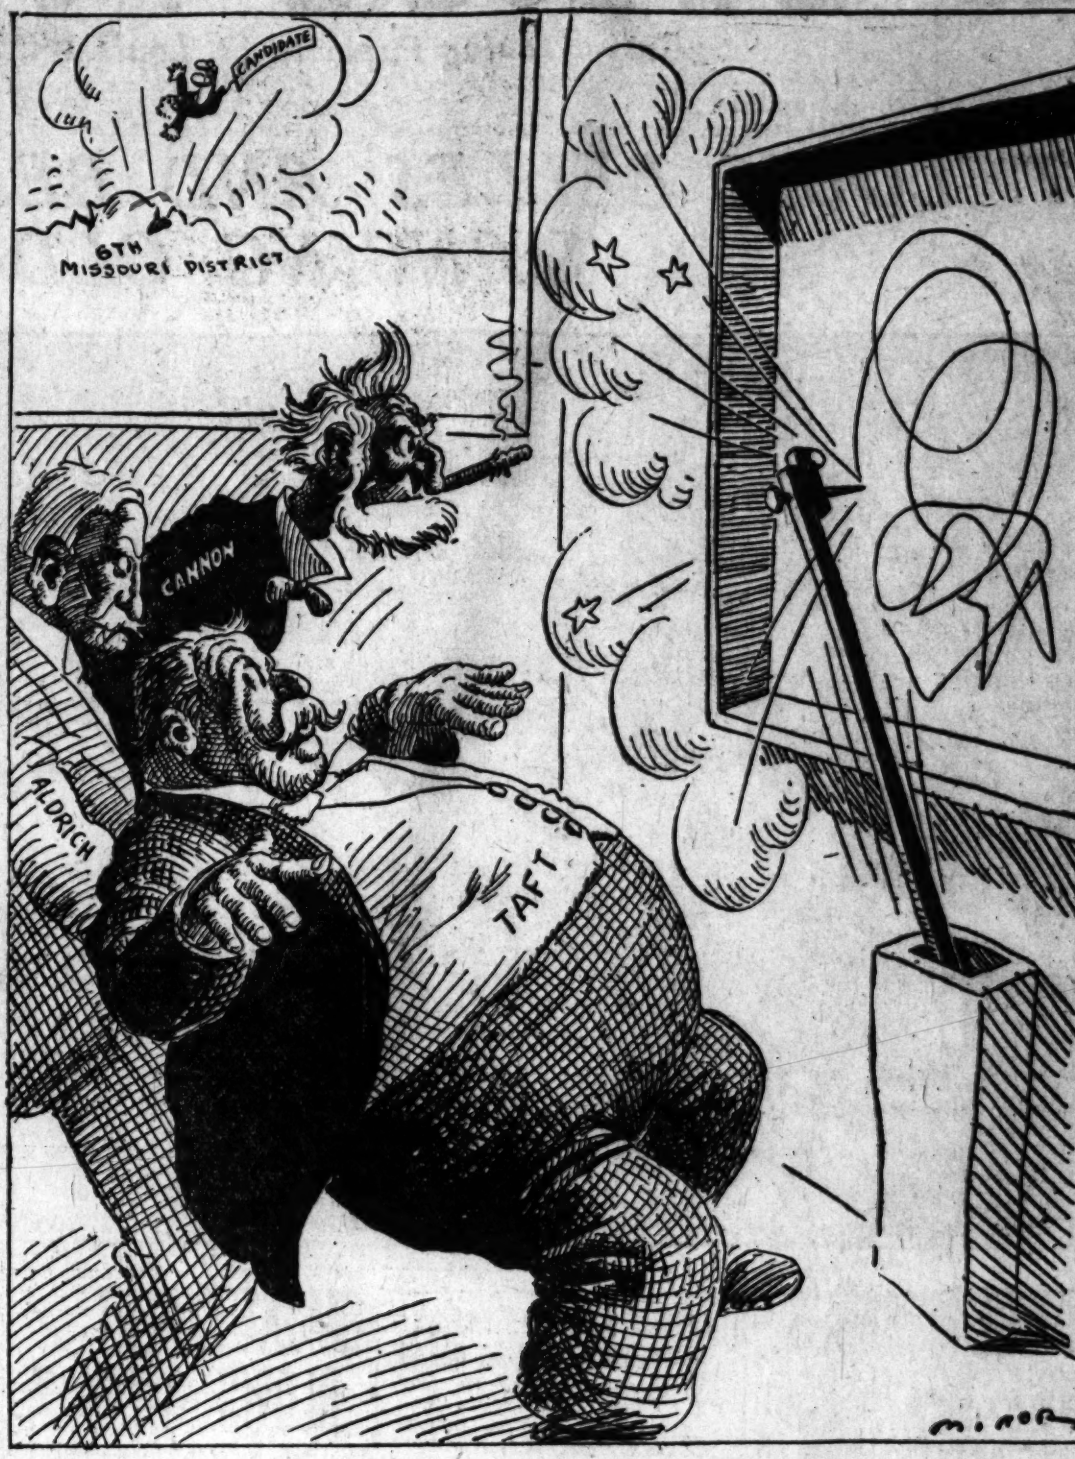

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It gave me a great pleasure to read in your paper that Gov. Hadley has awakened, and that he intends to improve the conditions in the State University. We all, the people of Missouri, must hope, at least, that it will be so. It seems to me that every citizen takes interest in its own university, but Missouri. They all want to have the best college, and the people are the main factors to accomplish it. But here, however, more attention is paid to private institutions, which in comparison cannot do as much good as a state university. Let us, then, hope that Dr. Hill will remain at the head of "Missouri" and that his desires will be fulfilled. F. V.

THE POLITICAL SEISMOGRAPH.

MAKING POETS TO ORDER.

From the New York World.
The establishment of a school for poets at the University of Missouri may or may not be due to a desire to challenge Indiana's literary supremacy. The significant thing is that a college in an age when the demand for a "practical" education echoes over every campus should hold out inducements to ambitious youths to mount Pegasus when their inclination is to try aeroplanes. To others may be left the task of discussing the moral responsibility of an educational institution which deliberately enlarges a poetical career at a time when the cost of living was never so high and when it requires something more than a sonnet to pay a grocer's bill.

But is the natural law no longer in force that poets are born and not made? If there is anything in eugenics a system of intermarriage among poets might be expected to produce a poetic progeny. But poets cannot be hatched in college incubators. The mechanics of verse may be taught in classrooms and the student trained to the knack of turning out alexandres and hexameters. But the fault is usually the sacrifice of substance to form. A university poet produced by such forcing process would be nothing more than an intellectual curiosity; but what chance would he have against some Bobby Burns from an Edina farmhouse?

Missouri has a cave famous as the haunt of the State's greatest living aviator. If it could produce a real Pierian Spirit or well at which the poetic affluence could be imbibed, the pilgrimages to Lourdes would be outdone. But the rest of the world will have to be "shown" that poets can be made in a college course. The mute, inglorious Mills of Missouri must continue to work out their poetic salvation in the old way without the aid of professors.

WITHIN THE G. O. P.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.
With ex-Secretary Garfield criticizing the Ballinger policy, with Mr. Pinchot succeeding President Eliot as the head of the United States Reclamation Service, and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, a rising from the bench the legal positions of Attorney-General Wickham, and with all the Roosevelt old guard in full hue and cry, there is really danger for the party which cannot get along without the country, especially as the country is coming to think that it can get along without the party, which cannot get along without it.

The Man Who Wins

Traits That Make for Success and the Way to Acquire Them.

By EMORY J. HAYNES.

Copyright by the Pre's Publishing Co.

READY memory for names of persons and their faces is a tremendous advantage to a young man. We may not be quite able to explain it, yet there is no one who will deny being greatly pleased when his name is spoken at an office door. The clerk who can do it 80 times out of 100 is rare. Most young men can hardly accost a third of the customers who enter the store by name.

The politician who can do what James G. Blaine always did and with such apparent ease (call the voters that thronged his platform by name) perhaps never will be seen again. It went a long way toward kindling that unreasonable enthusiasm for the "Plumed Knight" that was high to political worship itself.

There are not lacking mnemonic systems that will assist the poorest memory in fastening the names upon introduction. The key to it all is to give sharp heed to the name, even if you have to ask again for it. Then simply associate it with that man's features. It is worth the effort, because everyone has a bit of personal vanity which is touched by the ready recognition, as if he was of some little importance in the world.

Worth while because the buyer in town, pacing the corridors unnoticed, turns to you with a confidence far beyond what it is really worth when you put out your hand with his name. The law firm that has a man who never forgets a name eventually promotes that member to the high and easy life of doing not much else but greet people. He can bring in more business than all the rest of the firm combined. He knows people.

Great thing! Most of us do not know our neighbor and in church or club walk about to disadvantage, unable to address our fellows by name.

It is, however, a genuine interest in persons that gives staying power to the art of recognition. You are really sincere in your attention to this new acquaintance for the time being. What he has to say, what he is you honestly acknowledge. That fastens him in mind.

All friendships begin that way. They are mere introductions, then acquaintances, then friends. We are so many millions on millions that tread the sod. Old friends remove, and all are mortal. He who makes no new friends will find himself lonesome by middle life. There are as good and true men whom you do not yet know as any you ever did know.

Be sincere yourself and you will find sincerity. The mere trick of memorizing names and faces for trade purposes is a labor hardly worth the effort. But a genuine pleasure is a wide knowledge of one's fellowmen, an eye quick to read the face that is mainly, a fraternal heart in fact, make some men rich in acquaintance whose names they can call by the thousands, and when they speak the thousands gladly acknowledge that salutation.

"Hello old man! Get up with the lark this morning!"
"Naw. I got up with a headache, and I'm tryin' to walk it off."

"I ought to marry some rich girl!"
"Why don't you do it, then?"
"I'm afraid my wife would kick if I did!"

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

The story is told by Nicholas Trist, secretary to John G. Calhoun, the great proslavery statesman. Calhoun, accepting the post of Secretary of State in Tyler's Cabinet, announces that the closing years of his life will be devoted to annexing Texas and Oregon. He desires to enlist the diplomatic aid of Baroness de Ritz, who is known to have great influence with Sir Richard Pakenham, the British Minister to the United States. Through her he hopes to learn whether England will oppose annexation of the Western states. He sends Trist to the Baroness and she has a midnight conference with Calhoun. On the day Trist is to marry Elizabeth Churchill he receives orders to go to Canada on state business. Through a drunken blunder he is taken to Elizabeth as Trist's wedding gift. She refuses to marry him. He goes to Canada and there finds the Baroness in conference with British diplomat. She invites him to her Montreal home and he goes there at her request, though pursued by remains as her guest and guardian. Trist tries to obtain from her what she knows about England's designs on Oregon. She hints to him whether he and Elizabeth were married. He refuses and she angrily denounces him. In Montreal he meets Prof. von Rittenhofen, a German scientist, who promises to be a valuable aid in his diplomatic mission. The professor agrees to return to Washington with him. Going to the rooming house where the Baroness has been stolen from his dressing case, Trist finds the Baroness and she tells him that she is in fact the daughter of Prof. von Rittenhofen. Pakenham comes to visit the Baroness and she tells him that she is the daughter of Prof. von Rittenhofen. Pakenham comes to visit the Baroness and she tells him that she is the daughter of Prof. von Rittenhofen. Pakenham comes to visit the Baroness and she tells him that she is the daughter of Prof. von Rittenhofen.

THE room had grown dimmer. The sun was sinking as she talked. "In time, my father left his estates and went to a small place in the country, but my mother—her heart was broken. Malice pursued her. Those who were called her superiors would not let her alone. See, he weeps, my father, as he thinks of these things. "There was cause, then, to weep. For two years, they tell me, my mother wept. Then she died. She gave me, a baby, to her friend a woman of her village—Threlka Marzoff. You have seen her. She has been my mother ever since. She has been the sole guardian I have known all my life."

"You did not live at your own home with your father?" I asked. "For a time. But my father, I think, was permanently shocked by the loss of the woman he had loved and whom he had brought into all this cruelty. So they sent me away to France, to the schools. I grew up, I presume, proof in part of the excellence of my father's theory. They told me that I was a beautiful animal!"

The contempt, the scorn, the pathos—the whole tragedy of her voice and bearing—were such as I cannot set down on paper.

"But, madame," said I, at length, "you must not wrong your father and your mother and yourself. These two loved each other devotedly. Well, that more? You are the result of a happy marriage. You are beautiful, you are splendid, by that reason."

"Perhaps. Even when I was 16, I was beautiful," she mused. "I have heard rumors of that. But I say to you that then I was only a beautiful animal. Also, I was a vicious animal. I had in my heart all the malice which my mother never spoke. I felt in my soul the wish to injure women, to punish men, to torment them, to make them pay! To set even those balances of torture!—ah, that was my ambition! I had not forgotten that, when I first met you, when I first heard of—her, the woman whom you love, whom already in your savage strong way you have wedded—the woman whose vows I spoke with her—I—I, Helena von Ritz, with history such as mine!"

"Father, father!" she turned to him swiftly, "rise—go! I cannot now speak before you. Leave us alone until I call!"

Obedient as though he had been the child and she the parent, the old man rose and tottered feebly from the room.

"There are things a woman cannot say in the presence of a parent," she said, turning to me. Her face twitched. "It takes all my bravery to talk to you."

"Why should you? There is no need. Do not!"

"Ah, I must, because it is fair," said she. "I have lost, lost! I told you I would pay my wages."

After a time she turned her face straight toward mine and went on with her old splendid bravery.

"So now, you see, when I was young and beautiful for I had race and money, I had brains. I had hatred of men. I had contempt for the aristocracy. My heart was peasant, after all. My principles were those of the republican. Revolution was in my soul. I say, thwarted, distorted, wretched, unscrupulous, I did what I could to make hell for those who had made hell for us. I have set dozens of men by the ears. I have been promised in marriage for I know not how many. A dozen men have fought to the death in duels over me. For each such death I had not even a thought. The more troubles I made, the happier I was. Oh, yes, in time I became known—I had a reputation; there is no doubt of that."

"But still the organized aristocracy had its revenge—it had its will of me, after all. There came to me, as there had to my mother, an imperial order, in punishment for my fancies and vagaries, I was condemned to marry a certain nobleman. That was the whim of the new Emperor, Ferdinand. He took the throne when I was but 16 years of age. He chose for me a mate from his own sort."

She choked now. "You did marry him?"

She nodded. "Yes. Debauche, rake, monster, product of that aristocracy which had oppressed us. I was obliged to marry him, a man three times my age! I pleaded. I begged. I was taken away by night. I was—I was—They say I was married to him. For myself, I did not know where I was or what happened. But, after that they said that I was the wife of this man, a sot, a monster, the memory only of manhood. Now, indeed, the revenge of the aristocracy was complete!"

She went on at last in a voice icy cold. "I fled one night, back to Hungary. For a month they could not find me. I was still young. I saw my people then as I had not before. I saw also the monarchies of Europe. Ah, now I knew what oppression meant! Now I knew what class distinction and special privileges meant! I saw what ruin it was spelling for our country—what it will spell for your country, if they ever come to rule here. Ah, then that dream came to me which had come to my father, that beautiful dream which justified me in everything I did."

"For the first time, then, I resolved to live! I have loved my father ever since that time. I pledged myself to continue that work which he had undertaken! I pledged myself to better the condition of humanity if I might."

A Novel of American Spirit By EMERSON HOUGH

"There was no hope for me. I was condemned and ruined as it was. My life was gone. Such as I had left, that I resolved to give to—what shall we call it?—the idea demagogique."

"Now, may God rest my mother's soul, and mine also, so that some time I may see her in another world—I pray I may be good enough for that some time. I have not been sweet and sinless as was my mother. Fate laid a heavier burden upon me. But what remained with me throughout was the idea which my father had bequeathed me."

"Ah, but also that beauty and sweetness and loyalty which came to you from your mother," I insisted. "She shook her head. 'Wait!' she said. 'Now they pursued me as I thought I had been a criminal, and they took me back—horsemen about me who did as they liked. I was, I say, a sacrifice. News of this came to that man who was my husband. They shamed him into fighting. He had not the courage of the nobles left. But he heard of one nobleman against whom he had a special grudge; and him one night, foully and unfairly, he murdered."

"News of that came to the Emperor. My husband was tried, and the case being well known to the public, it was necessary to convict him for the sake of example. Then, on the day set for his beheading, the Emperor relieved him. The hour for the execution passed, and being now free for the time, he fled the country."

"It was now no longer safe for me in my own country. They would not let me go to my father any more. As for him, he went on with his studies, some part of his mind being bright and clear. They did not wish him about the court now. All these matters were to be hushed up. The court of Europe began to take cognizance of these things. Our Government was scandalized. They sent my father, on pretext of scientific errands, into one country and another—to Sweden, to England, to Africa, at last to America. Thus it happened that you met him. You must both have been very near to meeting me in Montreal. It was fate, as we of Hungary would say."

The unspeakable tragedy of her voice cut to my soul. "But listen!" she broke out again. "You are young. You are free. All the world is before you. You can have anything you like!"

"Ah, do not talk to me of that," she exclaimed imperiously. "I want to Paris. I have sown some seeds of venom, some seeds of revolt, in one place or another in Europe in my time. Ah, it works! It will go! Here and there I have cost a human life. Here and there work was to be done which I disliked; but I did it. Misguided, uncared for, misshandled as I had been—ah, as I said, I went to Paris."

"Ah, sir, will you not, too, leave the room, and let me tell on this story to myself, to my own soul? It is fitter for my confessor than for you."

"Let me, then, be your confessor!" said I. "Forget! Forget! You have not been this which you say. Do not know?"

"No, you do not know. Well, let

Love and Matrimony

A Post-Dispatch Expert's Advice on Affairs of the Heart.

By BETTY VINCENT.

MANY of the young men who write to me for advice in their love affairs seem to think if a girl is engaged to marry them she should give up all her friends. To some extent they have a right to expect something of the kind, but I think the young men who write to me carry it to the extreme. A man has a right, in my opinion, to object to having other men call regularly upon his fiancée, particularly if he knows these men are in love with her.

But, on the other hand, a girl often has old and trusted friends that it would be selfish for a man to ask her to give up.

G. T. writes: "I am 17 years of age. I know a young man three years my senior who is very anxious to call upon me. My parents approve of him. Do you think I am too young to accept his attentions as a friend?"

Not as a friend, my dear little girl. But you are far too young to think of any young man seriously. Let him call, as your parents approve. But do not forget you are still very young.

E. writes: "A young man was introduced to me and although I have only seen him a few times, I have fallen in love with him. He is very nice to me, but does not seem to pay me any unusual attentions. How can I find out if he loves me?"

You will have to wait until he tells you whether he loves you or not. And doubtless if you try to do the courting for him he will never tell you what you are so anxious to hear.

sume that you are now about to repeat that you are she!"

She nodded, the mischievous enjoyment of her colossal jest showing in her eyes, in spite of all. "Yes," said she, "among other things, I have been 'America Vespucci'!"

A smile came to my face at the suggestion of that celebrated adventurer and mysterious impostor who had figured in the annals of Washington—a fair Italian, so the rumor ran, who had come to this country to set up a claim upon our credulity at least, as to being the descendant of none less than Amerigo Vespucci himself!

"Yes, madam," I said. "I have heard of 'America Vespucci.' I pre-no one to enjoy it save myself—I saw myself begin to lose."

I divided Oregon at the forty-ninth parallel, and not at fifty-four forty when I broke Pakenham's key. But you shall see why I have never regretted that.

"Ask Sir Richard Pakenham if he wants his key now!" I said.

HUNDREDS OF LAYMEN IN CITY FOR CONVENTION

Missionary Movement Begins Tonight With Banquet at Armory.

MINISTERS HERE, TOO

Visitors Will Occupy Many Pulpits at the Sunday Services.

Hundreds of the delegates to the Laymen's Missionary Convention arrived Thursday. A banquet at the First Regiment Armory at 6 p. m. will open the most comprehensive missionary campaign ever attempted in St. Louis. Two thousand delegates, ministers and laymen representing 200 Protestant churches of St. Louis and as many more from Eastern, Middle and Western states are expected to attend the four days' meeting.

The evangelization of the world in the present generation is the keynote of the gathering, and is the aim of the religious workers who will assist in the program.

Chairman Selden P. Spencer will open the great movement when he reads the order at 7:30 p. m. at the close of the dinner, to introduce Dr. M. D. Eubank, a missionary physician from China. Dr. Eubank will speak on "The Significance of the National Missionary Campaign." He went to China as a medical missionary in 1880. He will describe the "dark, darkness, dampness and devil," he says he has encountered in the course of his work.

Col. Halford to Talk.

Col. Elijah W. Halford of the United States Army, retired, of New York, will follow Dr. Eubank. His subject will be "Men and Missions." Col. Halford is one of the best-known Methodist laymen in the country, and has served on many important committees in religious movements. He has also held many political appointments, and was at one time disbursing agent of the Behring Sea Arbitration Commission in Paris.

"America's World Responsibility" will be the subject of an address by J. Campbell White of New York, general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Mr. White is the author of several religious books, and is one of the most active leaders in the national missionary crusade.

The business sessions of the convention will be held at the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues, Friday and Saturday. Missionaries from widely separated parts of the world will give the delegates their views on the conditions in various countries and suggest remedies for uplifting the people. Sessions will be held each morning, afternoon and evening.

Visitors Will Preach.

Sunday the visiting missionaries and laymen will occupy the pulpits of various churches in St. Louis and explain the details of the religious movement to the members of the congregations, whose aid will be asked in carrying out the work planned by the convention.

As a part of the general program a mass meeting of women under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. will be held at 8:30 p. m. Sunday at its headquarters, Garrison and Lucas avenues. Miss Frances B. Patterson of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior will address the guests on "The Call of the Orient." She was engaged in missionary work in China during the Boxer uprising in that country.

A survey of the world field will be given by missionaries at the first business session Friday morning. In the afternoon there will be a general discussion on the questions of enlisting men in the church and mission cause, and the reflex influence of missions.

FIRST OUTDOOR PULPIT IN AMERICA WILL BE ERECTED IN NEW YORK CHURCHYARD

Five Sculptured Panels Will Be Separated by Figures of the Four Apostles.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The first formal outdoor pulpit ever erected in the United States will be ready for dedication soon in the churchyard of Grace Church, at Tenth street and Broadway. The model for the pulpit is finished and only the work of cutting it into white marble remains. The outdoor pulpit will be a dignified architectural monument and will face Tenth street, looking across the broad lawn that has taken the place of Fleischman's cafe.

The pulpit is the work of J. E. Roine, the sculptor. It is composed of five panels, bearing figures in high relief. The panels are separated by the figures of the apostles Matthew, Luke, Mark and John. These figures dominate the design and are modeled with unusual strength. The details, such as the hands, are carefully finished, betraying the painstaking touch of the artist skilled in modeling in miniature.

The central panel shows the seated figure of the Savior preaching; the left central panel a woman bearing a cross; the extreme left panel a figure of Death attended by a weeping angel. The two panels to the right contain figures symbolizing Mercy and Purity. Each panel bears on its pedestal a brief scriptural text.

Outdoor pulpits are common enough in the churchyards of England, but this at Grace Church is the first one to be erected in this country. Its cost is reported to be $50,000, which has been contributed by wealthy members of the congregation.

SPECIAL TAX IS URGED TO RETAIN HILL AT STATE U.

An amendment to the Missouri Constitution providing for a special tax to be levied for a fund to maintain the State University is urged by graduates of the Columbia University and legislators as a solution of the financial problems of the school. This, it is believed, also will be a successful plan by which the services of President A. Ross Hill can be retained.

Dr. Hill has been offered an increased salary by the University of Minnesota, and has the matter under consideration. He has complained that the Missouri State University has been discriminated against in the matter of funds appropriated by the Legislature for the maintenance of the school, which hampered its efforts. If he leaves the school and accepts the Minnesota offer, it will be because of this false economy condition, it is said.

Members of the alumni of the State University in St. Louis have interested many business men in the movement to place the institution on a firm financial footing, and approve the special tax plan. They explain that a tax of a few mills on the $100 valuation will not be a hardship on taxpayers and will create an annual fund sufficient to furnish the proper equipment for the school and relieve the officials of the institution from appearing before the Legislature each year to beg for appropriations.

State Senator Frank W. McAllister approves the alumnus idea, and expressed the hope that Dr. Hill would be retained as president. Fred W. Lehmann and C. P. Walbridge are among the many St. Louisans who have interested themselves in a plan to retain the services of Dr. Hill and place the school on a firm footing.

The last Legislature appropriated $50,000 for the two-year period of 1908-10 for the university. In 1908 the sum of $50,000 was appropriated, part of that being for the erection of buildings. The same year other states whose taxable property was less than that of Missouri appropriated larger sums for the maintenance of their state universities.

OBOE AND FRENCH HORN TRIO WAS A CYCLE DELIGHT

Third Beethoven Program's Quaint Pastoral Feature Beautifully Picturesque—Its Players Piped Like Shepherds to Their Flocks.

IT SEEMED to me that the little trio for two oboes and French horn, in which Messrs. Wouters, Schlipf and McConathy of the Symphony Orchestra were heard during the choral of the third Beethoven cycle concert at the Odeon last night was, in its essence of quaintness and picturesque charm, the most beautifully memorable event of a memorable evening.

This, too, in despite of the fact that the night's pleasure reached its crowning with an admirable presentation of the splendidly full-volume Fifth Symphony by the orchestra, following an efficient orchestral interpreting of the less imposing Fourth Symphony and a peculiarly delightful treatment of the String Quartet No. 5, in which, undeniably, Mr. Zach's string sections were heard to better advantage than at any other moment of the present brilliant Symphony season.

The appealing little trio, somehow, refuses to take its properly subordinated place in one's after-contemplation of the program. In an astonishing sort of way it remains in one's mind as might the timid but devout offering of one of those badly beautiful Morality Plays of early Christian times in company with an otherwise somewhat more modern evening of majestic spectacular productions, etching itself into one's memory with indelible strokes of naive sincerity.

Its three players might well have been shepherds of long ago, piping to their flocks in the fields, so ancient and pastoral were the notes they sounded. And the lovely little Beethoven melody of their playing was joyous and greatly simple, as of that younger world, when childlike poets of devoted thought walked the earth and made it glad.

You would not think that an audience of the present day might care for an unassuming presentation of such utter genuineness as is revealed in this little Beethoven trio, yet the fine truth is that last night's house responded to it in the most appreciative spirit. It was untiring in its applauding of the three players—surely they would have been obliged to make answer with an encore had it not been for Mr. Zach's just belief that the solicitously planned program of a Beethoven evening must not be disturbed in such manner.

And it was a reassuring thing to see, immediately past 11 days we have had eight performances of grand opera, six Symphony Orchestra concerts, one Tetrastel evening, one Amphion Club and one Apollo Club concert—a total of 17 important musical events within the brief period named.

Last night's Beethoven Cycle offering was among the most beautiful of them all. RIPLEY D. BAUNDERS.

NEXT SUNDAY'S POPULAR CONCERTS.

Conductor Zach has arranged the following inviting program for next Sunday afternoon's popular concert by the Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon:

Hungarian March.....Berlioz
Overture to Masaniello.....Auber
Coppelia: Dance of the Automates.....Coppola
Waltz and Cadenza.....Delibes
Selections from Cavalleria Rusticana.....Mascagni
Ronde d'Amour.....Westerhout
Dance of the Hours, from Gioconda.....Ponchielli
Waltz, The Skaters.....Waldteufel
Seats for these concerts, which invariably crowd the Odeon to its utmost seating capacity, may be obtained in advance at Bollman's box office. This precaution gives a reasonable assurance of the purchaser obtaining a seat, as while there are no reserved seats save in the boxes, the house is not sold beyond its seating capacity.

Mi-o-na for Gastric Catarrh and All Stomach Ills.

A Special Prescription, that no Stomach Specialist can excel.

At least a million people know by experience that Mi-o-na stomach tablets give quick and astonishing relief in cases of acid stomach, heartburn, food fermentation, belching of gas, heaviness, etc.

But a great many do not know that Mi-o-na is such an astonishing remedy that it is a most valuable aid in the treatment of gastric catarrh. Gastric catarrh is recognized by the following symptoms which point to the stomach or the seat of the trouble.

Loss of appetite, nausea or sickness at the stomach, belching of gas, heartburn or sour stomach, furred tongue, constipated bowels, tenderness over the region of the stomach, slow digestion of food and sensation of weight at pit of stomach, depression of spirits, dreaming and restlessness at night, lack of energy or weariness and offensive breath.

For any or all of the above symptoms Mi-o-na stomach tablets give remarkable results and is the treatment par excellence.

Should the above symptoms be allowed to continue without treatment, loss of strength and weight and impoverished blood would result and a thickening of the walls of the stomach with stricture would follow.

The safest plan to adopt is to take Mi-o-na stomach tablets for any stomach trouble, no matter what it is, because there is no prescription ever written, that can compare with Mi-o-na.

That's why Mi-o-na is guaranteed to cure indigestion or any disease of the stomach, or money back.

Sold by druggists everywhere for only 50 cents a large box. Start the Mi-o-na treatment today, it never fails. Mail orders filled, all charges prepaid, by Booth's Mi-o-na, Buffalo, N. Y.

PRINCESS ANNA HAS TO LIVE ON $200,000 A YEAR

$1,400,000 of Income of De Sagan's Wife Goes to Pay Off Her Debts.

PALACE IS MORTGAGED

Former Miss Gould Owes $342,995 to the Dowager Duchess de Noailles.

By Special Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The Princess de Sagan's indebtedness of $342,995.19 to the aged Dowager Duchess de Noailles, it was learned today, was for money borrowed on a mortgage on the Chateau de Marais, the former Anna Gould's summer home near Paris.

This item among the millions in claims of 120 creditors that are being settled by the Gould family was the strangest of all the debts contracted by the Princess Anna and her first husband, Count Boni de Castellane. Even the friends of the family could not understand how she could have incurred an indebtedness of a third of a million dollars to one of the most influential leaders of the old noblesse of France.

If the Duchess had been in trade little would have been thought of the matter, but her salons are accounted among the most exclusive in all France, being remorselessly closed against the new rich. She declined to meet the wife of her husband's brother, the Marquis de Noailles, who for years was envoy at Washington and afterward Ambassador at Constantinople and Berlin, where his wife and himself had the marked favor of the Kaiser. But the Duchess maintained the Marquis was not of superior birth.

Of Ancient Ancestry.

The De Noailles can trace their ancestry in an unbroken line to Pierre de Noailles, the Crusader, who flourished at the beginning of the thirteenth century. The dukedom of Noailles was created in 1663. The De Noailles country seat is at Maintenon, in the Department of Eure-et-Loire. The place was given by Louis XIV to his morganatic wife, Mme. de Maintenon, who in turn gave it to her niece, wife of a De Noailles. There the Dowager Duchess received the then Countess de Castellane, it seems, after becoming interested in Count Boni for his red marble palace in the avenue de Bois de Boulogne, which was to be a copy of Louis XIV's $20,000,000 chateau at Versailles.

The Duchess de Noailles was intensely interested in anything relating to Louis XIV, and when there came a halt in the work of finishing the place she expressed regret. In this connection four other items of Princess Anna's indebtedness are explained. They are $300,000 owed to Le Soleil Life Insurance Co., $200,000 to Barclay, Harris, Campbell & Coleman, $100,000 to Leon Tredegar & Edward Hagies, and $137,970.01 to the Levys and their wives.

Her Palace Mortgaged.

All are for mortgages on the Bois du Boulogne palace. It was mortgaged up to the hilt. But the De Castellanes owned the Chateau du Marais and the Duchess de Noailles readily lent the third of a million that Count Boni sought on that. The De Noailles once owned the chateau.

The net income on the estate of Jay Gould from 1901 to 1904, inclusive, was $24,136,967. Of this amount Anna Gould's one-sixth share was $5,689,477.61. Yet she received only $1,000,000. Her income of three-quarters of a million a year when she married Count Boni was cut to $300,000 to pay debts, and she was forced to start housekeeping on this sum with Prince de Sagan.

DREAMS HUSBAND IS DEAD AND FINDS MANGLED BODY

Engineer Was Crushed by Machinery While at Work in Electric Plant.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ORTONVILLE, Minn., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Matthew Henkle awoke two hours before dawn from a dream that her husband was dead, and noticed that the electric night lamp connected with the city power plant, where her husband was engineer, was not burning.

Alarmed, she hurriedly dressed and started for the plant. Nearing it she saw showers of sparks. The dynamo had been short-circuited. She called her husband's name, but got no answer. Then, by the light of the glittering machinery, she found the body of her husband, mangled and crushed in the main shafting.

She took the body in her arms and began to retrace her way through the whirling engines and dynamos. When the police came in answer to her cries they found her dress asliss.

The hourly night record showed that Henkle was killed between 1 and 2 o'clock.

WOMAN "RAFFLES" INVADERS HOME AND STEALS CLOTHING

She Fools Members of Family by Posing as Friend of Absent Daughter.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—A female "Raffles," with the appearance of a high school girl, has made her debut in Kansas City, Kan. She committed a burglary yesterday and so cleverly did she do it that she was gone several hours before even the occupants of the house knew of the theft.

The girl appeared at the home of Miss Lizzy Evans and was told Miss Evans was not at home.

"All right," she said. "I'll just run upstairs and wait for her to return."

At the top of the stairs William Evans, the girl's father, met the burglar. Again she asked for Miss Evans. She was informed the girl was not at home.

Taking it for granted that the girl was a friend of his daughter, Mr. Evans permitted her to go into Miss Evans' room. When Miss Evans returned in the evening the stranger was gone. Several waists, skirts and numerous toilet articles had also disappeared.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN'S STORY OF HIS LIFE

(Copyright, 1910, by John L. Sullivan.) (Copyright, 1910, by the Press Publishing Co., New York City.) CHAPTER XX.

AFTER my fight with McCaffrey there was little doing in the way of matchmaking, and I turned my mind toward making money. I went back to Boston and signed a contract to travel with Allen's Minstrels at a salary of $500 a week. My job was to pose as a statue of ancient and modern gladiators. I can assure you that that was much easier money than knocking some poor fellow out for every night. I might get that job now, but with my 300 pounds of flesh I have some doubts as to whether I could make a hit as a statue of Apollo. Can you imagine Apollo weighing 300 pounds and wearing a long gray moustache? I remained with the minstrel show for six months and closed in Chicago so as to make a match with Charlie Mitchell. That fell through on account of the citizens of the city appealing to the officials to prevent it. Having lost another chance to get Mitchell, I went direct to New York. There I went into the saloon business, forming a partnership with William Bennett. I was doing pretty well until a man named Frank Herald began pestering and hounding me for a match. I finally had to close up the place and go out West and lick him. I did that trick in just one round on Sept. 18, 1888.

Pat Sheedy manages John L. IN THE meantime I had put myself under the management of Pat Sheedy and started on a trip to the coast with Steve Taylor, George LeBlanc, Jimmy Carroll and Patsy Kerrigan. In Frisco I finally got another chance to meet Paddy Ryan, the man from whom I had won the championship in 1882. I knocked him out in three rounds and received something like $1500 for the trouble.

After leaving Frisco I received an injury that came near putting me out of the fighting game for good. In fact, it was the first serious hurt I ever had. During an exhibition bout in Minneapolis, Jan. 18, 1887, I met Patsy Cardiff. We were to go six rounds. In the opening minute I let drive my left, but found that I had gauged my man wrongly. The blow struck him in the middle of the forehead just as he was ducking. I felt a sharp twinge in my arm, but I kept on. In a few minutes I discovered that I had broken one of the bones in my arm and it was useless to try to continue. I spit this injury I fought out the other five rounds and was given the decision. "Why didn't you knock him out?" yelled some fellow derisively from the crowd. "I guess you had it fixed, eh?" chirped another.

"I guess all this stuff about you knocking everybody out in four rounds is all wind. You have got to show us." These remarks angered me, and I walked to the footlights to explain. "Gentlemen," I began, but they would not listen to me. They hooted and howled so that I had to go to my dressing room without making an explanation. That crowd had no idea that my arm was broken.

Wasn't the Ulna Bone, Anyhow.

HURRIED to the Hotel Nicolette and sent for two surgeons to look at my arm. I was suffering the most excruciating pain and my arm had swollen until it was almost double its natural size. By the time the doctors decided what to do it was 3 in the morning. They finally sent for some splints and decided to set the arm, as they had found where the bone was broken. The "radius" bone, I believe, they called it.

With the splints on I left with the party next day for Dakota and continued on to Winnipeg, Manitoba. The other fellows would do the boxing and I would appear in my own name. That did not suit the fans, however. They wanted me in fights. Therefore, we called off the trip and came back to Minneapolis. The arm had not improved a great deal. The temperature was 30 degrees below zero and I was getting a bad fix. The doctors finally decided to set the arm in felt splints. They evidently didn't know what to do and I had to be the sufferer.

Things got to such a pass that I began to be alarmed for fear that I might lose the arm. They wanted me to see a surgeon in Chicago, but I made up my mind to come straight to New York and see Dr. Louis Sayers, who I regard as one of the greatest surgeons in the world.

Sayers hurried around as soon as he heard New York. He was surrounded by the other doctors who had attended to the arm. They were all in such a state of confusion that I could never button your collar your scarf," he said.

At it and it found that the arm was set wrong. I saw that the palm of my hand was turned upward instead of downward when I hung it at my side.

Broke the Arm Again. MR. SAYERS immediately called his two sons. He told them to hold the muscle of the bicep as well as the forearm. He then took hold of my hand as if to shake hands with me. In a flash he broke the arm, and for a minute he had me scared stiff. After resetting it he looked the arm in a plaster cast. I carried it in that position for five weeks. At the end of that time it was well and I could go back to fighting.

When my arm was well enough to resume sparring exhibitions I went back to my old home at Boston. On Aug. 8 a grand testimonial benefit was given me at the Boston Theater. It was on that occasion that I was presented with the diamond belt which came to be known all over the world. The one I got from the Police Gazette and sent back was like a dog collar alongside this one. The belt given me at Boston was of solid gold and set with 337 diamonds. This was made in Maiden lane, New York and is said to be the greatest and nicest piece of workmanship of its kind that was ever presented to a champion. The belt is 48 inches in length and 12 inches in width and is the largest piece of first gold ever seen in this country. It was about 12 inches square when started and weighed about 2300 pennyweights. It took about three months to complete it. It contains a center plate, two boxing panels, an eagle panel, and a harp panel. These panels are studded with diamonds. My name on the belt is composed of 250 stones.

Still Loves the Hub. ALWAYS have and always will, love my native city of Boston. I have in me the real Bostonian pride in my city. Her streets may be narrow, but her people are broad. It is the greatest collection of stand-patters in the country.

On a Boston bean diet I became the heavyweight champion of the world. The mightiest human fighting machine that had appeared up to my day. It was the Boston bean, well baked, that gave me the courage to fight everybody with a white skin who wanted a chance. Had I stuck closer to the bean and cut out some other things that begin with B, I'd never have got mine from a sprinter. The bean is nutritious and cheap, two things which recommend it to us Yankees.

Right here I want to make an explanation. One of my reasons for becoming a writer is to draw public attention to a plan which I have been trying to get going for a long time. This is a reunion of the Sullivan family—that is all the Sullivans. You hear of reunions of the Brown family, or the Jones family, or the Smith family and so forth, but what tribe can show up like the Sullivan family?

There are enough of us Sullivans to repel an army, and we're always ready—the Sullivans could go up and take Canada without asking help from any other first family. There are Sullivans enough to fill every position you may name. Do you want to know? Look at the Sullivan in Boston, who is 6 feet 5 1/2 inches tall, working as a longshoreman for $1.50 a day. Do you want to know? Look at another Sullivan in Boston, 5 feet 5 inches short, working as a president of a railroad at a salary of $25,000. There are Sullivans of all grades in between these two samples, and I hope some day to see the family reunited—if there is any place big enough to hold us all.

Let all the Sullivans take hold and help this thing along. I propose that a society be formed under the name of the Amalgamated Sullivans. If this is done we can control everything in the land. We are certainly the balance of power. I'd love to join such a family reunion, and I'll make a side bet that when it is pulled off the whole country will sit up and take notice. As for the Sullivan women, they are the prettiest, the wittiest of any, and they raise families large enough, too.

"St. Louis Day" at A.B.C. Tournery Set for March 12

Spencer L. Drake, president of the City Tenpin Association, and Maurice Phillips, a member of the Executive Committee of the A. B. C., after a long-distance telephone conference with Abe Langtry, secretary of the American Bowling Congress, decided Thursday afternoon on March 12 as St. Louis day at Detroit.

The following teams are expected to compete: Witter-Christens, Hyde Parks, Bowlers, Budweisers, De Sotos, Grands, St. Louis H. & R. Co., Fer-Mil-Lacs, Wabash, Lang's Stars, Regalia, Duffy.

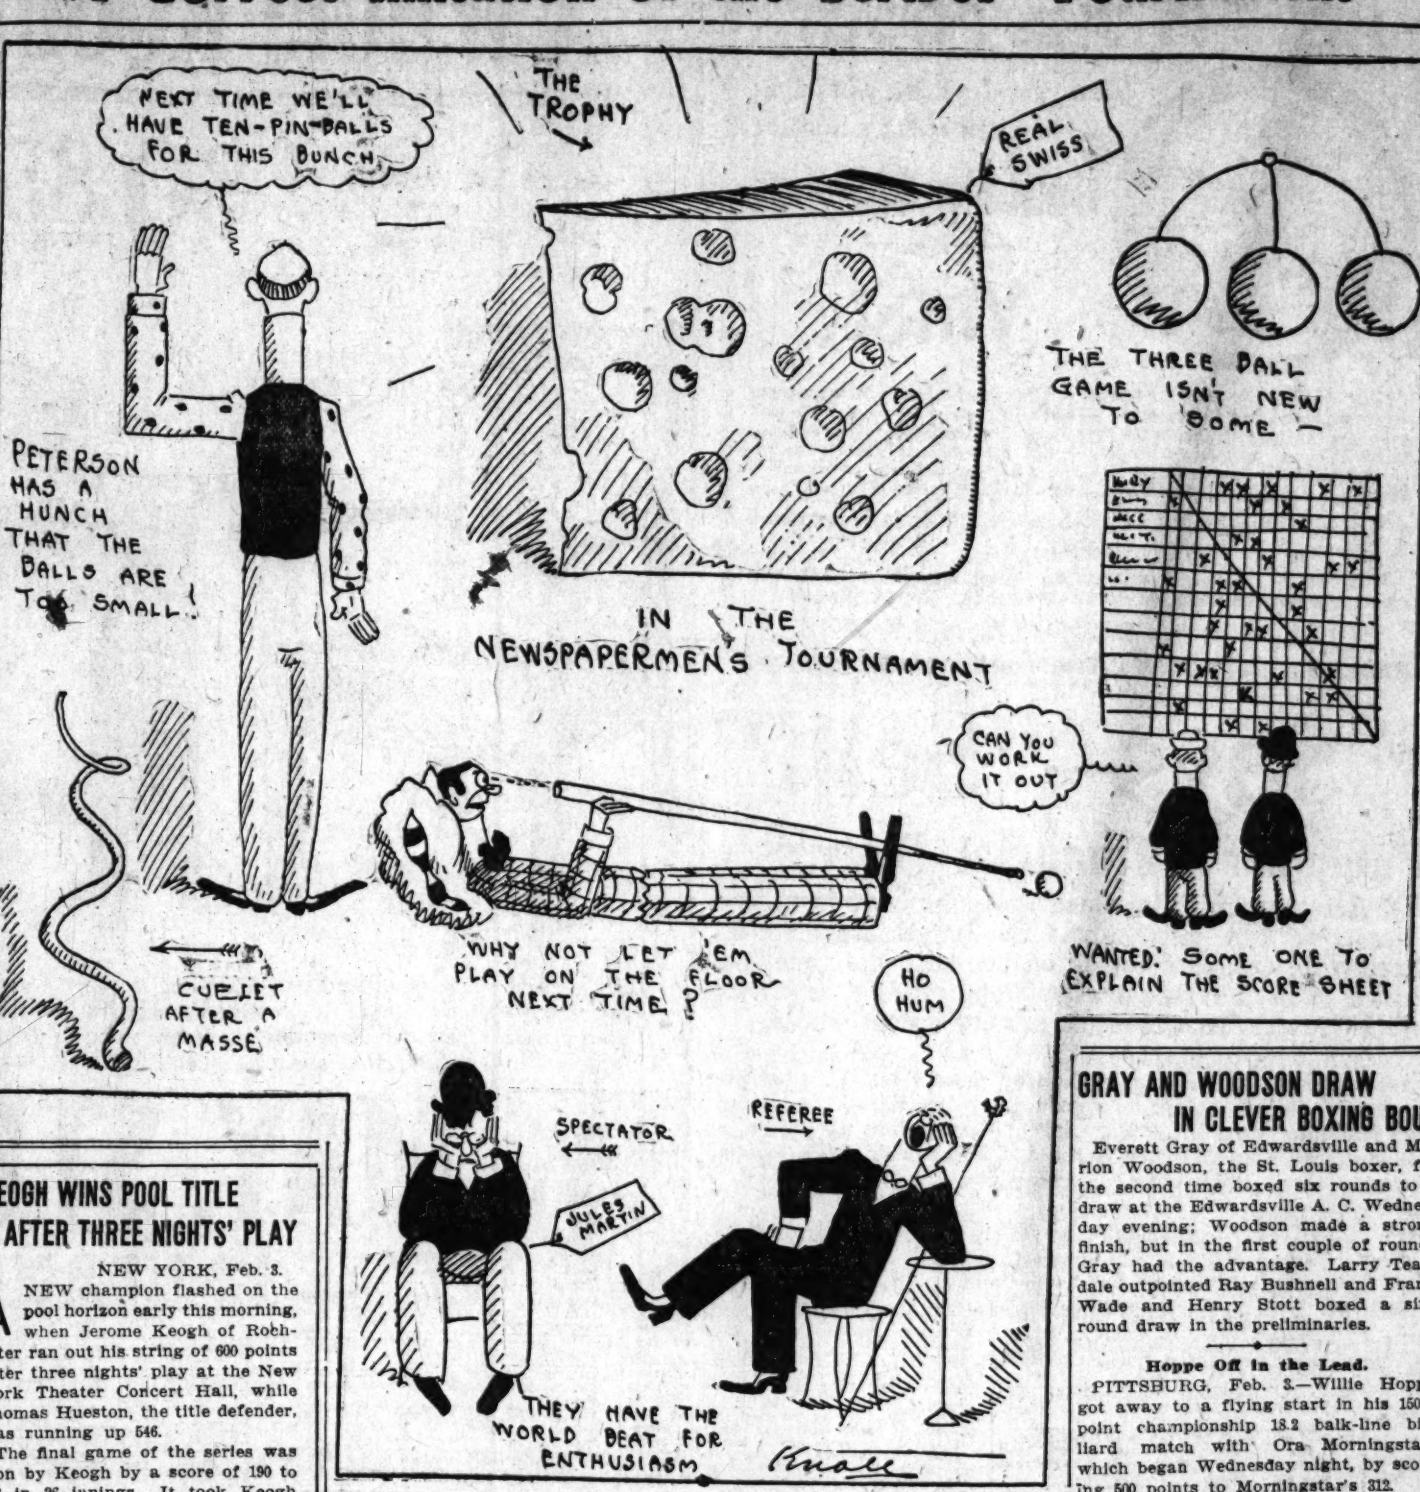

COMISKEY AND BAN B. ESCAPE ARREST IN SOUTH

MARIANNA, Ark., Feb. 3.—The possession of a written invitation to hunt has saved Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Americans, and his guests aboard the little craft "White Sox," from arrest at the hands of the game warden of Arkansas. Preparations had been made by Warden Vlsart to take the hunters into custody when his attention was called to a recently enacted statute which makes it permissible for a resident of another state to hunt in this county if he had a written invitation. It happened that the party was in the county specified and they had the invitation. The hunt will continue without molestation.

Besides Comiskey, in the party are B. B. Johnson, president of the American League; William Chappelle, Ed Hurlbert, Charlie Shield and other baseball men.

Red Sox to Train on Coast. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—If Charles Comiskey of the Chicago Americans should decide to make his coming trip club to the Pacific Coast, the Boston Americans will be ready to come to a California next year, according to a statement made by President John J. Taylor of the club last night. "I would like to bring the Boston team to California," said Taylor, "but of course it all depends upon what Comiskey plans."

A Correct Imitation of the Scribes' Tournament

KEOGH WINS POOL TITLE AFTER THREE NIGHTS' PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. NEW champion flashed on the pool horizon early this morning, when Jerome Keogh of Rochester ran out his string of 600 points after three nights' play at the New York Theater Concert Hall, while Thomas Hueston, the title defender, was running up 546.

The final game of the series was won by Keogh by a score of 150 to 13 in 25 innings. It took Keogh until midnight to clinch his right to the title.

Soccer League's Sunday Schedule.

The Athletic Park Soccer League schedule for Sunday calls for the St. Leo's to meet the St. Teresa in what is expected to be the best game of the season. The second game will bring together the Blue Bells and Innstalls.

Dreyfuss and Clarke Show NO SENTIMENT FOR ABSTEIN

Barney Now Says Young Frst Baseman Mixed Play of the Team Badly.

By JAMES CRUICKSHANK. ARNEY DREYFUSS, boss of the world, is quoted as saying that Bill Abstein was released from Pittsburgh because he was mixing up the plays of the team. He says Fred Clarke, his trusty leader, told him as early as June that another first baseman would have to be procured for 1910. It's rather remarkable that a member of a team that had won the highest honors in the world, would be released. One would think there would be enough sentiment in baseball to carry over the poorest man on the team over another season when he might reap a bit of the glory gained the previous season. But Dreyfuss seems to have dropped sentiment from the game.

Comiskey Observes Sentiment. IN 1906, the Chicago White Sox won the pennant in the American League after one of the grandest finishes in the history of the game. They then turned and whipped the Chicago Cubs in the world's series. Comiskey had a man on third base, George Roche, who was far from major league caliber. But he had no one to take his place and Roche played the best most of the season. His wild throws nearly made a nervous wreck of "Jiggs" Donohue, who was then playing first base. In the world's series, Roche was at his worst, but he won the first game with a three-bagger into the crowd and helped win over with a second three-bagger to the same spot.

Roche probably lost many more games during the season by his bad fielding and wild throwing than he won with his hitting. So he was a bad man for the game.

BILLIARDS

Thorn plays Gelsinger and Harrington Wests Woodward in the 15.2 matches at Peterson's Thursday. Raney 200, Watson 161, and Andrews 200. Mathey 192, was the result of the games Wednesday.

Marlin May and Abe Killian are tied for the lead in the class A three-cushion tournament at the Rex, as the result of the game Wednesday night. In which Dr. Moore defeated King, 40 to 34.

Schultz and S. Strickland are scheduled to meet in the red-ball billiard tournament match at the Hauser Thursday. Wolf will meet F. Strickland in the evening games. Humphrey defeated Neldinghaus, 70 to 50, Wednesday.

Fath and Arze will furnish the three-cushion billiard tournament game at the Grand Wednesday afternoon. Hartville won from Holland Wednesday, 40 to 25.

the team, and yet, after winning the world's championship, Charley Comiskey sent him a contract for the next season with a substantial raise in salary and carried him on the team for the following season for no other reason than sentiment.

Bill Beats the Cubs. BILL ABSTEIN did more to win games from the Cubs last season than any man on the Pirates team. His long and fierce drives were continually beating the Chicagoans and Chance's team was the only one that had a chance to beat out Pittsburgh. In other years the Pirates always considered themselves beaten as soon as Mordecai Brown stepped into the pitcher's box. But Bill Abstein batted Mr. Brown's curves to the fence early in the season and the Pirates beat him nearly every time he worked against them all summer.

Abstein had personal troubles with Tommy Leach and one or two other members of the Pirates team and they began making life miserable for the young first baseman.

If there is anything that will make a ballplayer lose his head in the game, it's that fear of his teammates. Bill played in constant dread of making mistakes. He was so afraid that before the season was far advanced, he was taking throws to first base on his knees, simply because he was afraid the ball would get by him. Tommy Leach was generally on the coaching line when Bill was running bases and they hated each other. It was nothing more than the dread of a "calling" from one of the "old heads" on the team that affected Abstein's work last summer.

Byrne Helps Him Finish.

BOBBY BYRNE hadn't gone to the Pirates in August, it is doubtful if Abstein would have stayed out the season. Bob is Billy's veteran friend, for they were boys together right in St. Louis, and the companionship Abstein obtained from Byrne braced him enough to stick to the end.

It should not be surprising to see Abstein make a great record with the Browns. He'll have no veteran members of the team here, nagging at him all the time. He should gain confidence in himself for he will find that he is farther advanced in the science of the game than some of the other young men that Jack O'Connor expects to play as regulars on the team. Probably he'll learn to take thrown balls standing straight up, the easiest way, and break that fearful habit of getting on his knees for them. A low wild throw may cause a man to go to his knees so as to block it, but Bill seemed to expect a wild one every time.

Chicago Beats Democrat Again.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Harry Cline of Philadelphia defeated Calvin Demarest of Chicago in the second game of the 183 ball billiard match for the national championship by a score of 806 to 482. The total score is now, 1000 to Cline and 726 for Demarest.

Plans Complete for Boat Race.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 3.—The preliminary arrangements fixing June 30 for the annual Harvard-Yale boat race at New London, Conn., were completed Wednesday when the agreements for the race were signed by the Harvard and Yale managers and captains.

Fighters in a Draw.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 3.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland and Jack White of Chicago, featherweights, fought a slow bout to an eight-round draw at Windsor, Canada, Wednesday night. Both men showed clever footwork and finished in good condition.

WRAY'S COLUMN.

WHEN the Rev. D. A. Keane finishes his campaign against objectionable posters of the semi-nude, he will probably lead a second advance against the photographs now being circulated of some of our best college boxing and swimming teams.

'Tis well that this baseball schedule meeting is coming along on Feb. 15. It is a sort of news oasis in a vast desert of "nothing-doing" baseball. Charles Murphy has long since ceased to rouse any resentment; Johnny Kling, as a newspaper theme, has been manhandled to a fringe; and even the last dying spasm concerning Bill Abstein's merit has all but been written. It will therefore be seen that the magnates' little jangle will very likely be needed to tide us over to the safe going of spring training trips. After which, we reach the haven of pennant picking.

Many newspaper men have contended that the hardest thing in the world to do was to play billiards—and, after watching some of them at work, a spectator might well believe them. But these have never been confronted by a page or two of emptiness, when all was quiet along the Potomac.

Bo, it's worse than a three-cushion bank, believe me. Johnny McGraw's Record. ORNIE MACK has the record for securing great players for almost nothing. Perhaps Eddie Collins is his most conspicuous success, although he has many notches on the bench recording previous bargains.

But, strange to say, John McGraw probably has the record of paying more for "gold bricks" than the rest. It is doubtful if ever a deal of more conspicuous financial disaster was made than that by which McGraw acquired Pitcher Marquard and Durham for a total of $18,000. Marquard costing $11,000. Durham was hardly given a show ere he was chased to Canada or some other distant wilds, while Marquard has been retained. His success with a team like the Giants back of him, was five games won and 13 lost.

You can't always make pitchers by paying high prices for them. Evidently McGraw thinks Marquard has the makings left, for he has signed him for the present year.

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

"YOU ADVISED ME TO USE S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM. I DID SO AND IT CURED ME."

The above is an extract from a letter which we publish below, from Mr. J. O'Malley. As he says, we advised him to use S.S.S. for Rheumatism, and at the same time we told him why it would cure him. In this short talk we want to tell every one who is suffering with Rheumatism, about the principle on which S.S.S. works, and explain exactly how it cures this disease. We believe you will agree with us that it is the only possible way in which to cure the trouble.

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood. This uric impurity gets into the circulation by absorption, usually because of chronic constipation, weak kidneys, and other systemic irregularities. Then the blood becomes weak and sour, and irritating urate particles are formed in this vital fluid. When in this impure condition the blood cannot furnish the necessary amount of nourishment to the different muscles, tendons, nerves and ligaments of the body. Instead, it constantly steepens them in the briny, acid matter, and the gritty, urate particles collect in the joints, which causes the pains, aches and soreness of Rheumatism.

Gradually every symptom grows worse, the pains are more frequent and severe; the muscles become sore and tender, and constant contact with the acid blood slowly dries up the natural fluids of the joints, causing the knees, ankles, fingers, etc., to become swollen and stiff.

Rubbing the affected portions of the body, or the application of liniments, plasters, hot cloths, etc., may furnish relief from the acute pain of an attack of the trouble, but until the blood is purified of the cause Rheumatism will remain in the system, gradually growing worse.

There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S.S.S. goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head. It removes the cause for the reason that it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated blood, furnishes the material for multiplying the rich, nutritious corpuscles, and by its action assists the system to rapidly overcome every symptom of the disease. S.S.S. is purely vegetable, and may be used by anyone with perfect safety. The fact that S.S.S. has been curing Rheumatism for more than forty years is one of the reasons why we say it will cure you. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired, to all who write and request same.

SHEEP—The sheep trade was on a better basis for the good fat sheep lambs, but the half fat offerings were any better than steady with yesterday's. The offerings were Colorado lambs and they sold from $8.25 to $9.00, the price being the highest obtained for the last two weeks. Western ewes that were extra good sold at $5.00 and $5.50. No sheep and lambs were scarce and thus sale not very good.

RAILROAD NEWS AND GOSSIP

It is highly probable that the New He and Canadian Pacific, as well as the O & W, Western, have agreed to raise their rate to the standard all-rail classification which is 75 cents on the 100 pounds first-class business. It is assumed that the rate all other class rates are based. It is here heretofore maintained a rate of 60 cents, which the other trunk lines threatened to meet unless they agreed to away with this differential.

TAFT GOES TO BALTIMORE TO HEAR CARUSO SING IN OPERA

President Congratulates Great Tenor Whom He Had Never Heard Before.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 3.—President Taft, Mrs. Taft, her sister, Mrs. Anderson, and Miss Florence Dugan, came to Baltimore last night to hear "La Gioconda," with Caruso as the chief artist. The President had an enthusiastic reception. "The Star Spangled Banner" was played when he entered the auditorium. To avoid diverting the attention of the audience from the opera the President had the curtains drawn about the Michael Jenkins but, he occupied the first act the President sent for Caruso, and after congratulating him, said: "You are the only singer who could have drawn me from Washington tonight. I have your voice in phonograph records, but have never heard you in person before."

For the Woman Who Has Beautiful Hair

(New York Theatrical News)
The beauties in the Anna Held chorus are famous for their pulchritude. Their coiffures add a great deal to their charms. How they can "manage" such abundance of beautiful tresses day in and day out keeping always the same well-groomed appearance, is beyond the ken of the average woman. But, listen while I whisper, these girls depend altogether upon dry shampooing to keep their hair fine and glossy.

They mix 4 ounces of powdered orris root with 4 ounces of ether, and they are prepared for a season's shampooing. Once or twice a week they sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture on the head and then brush the powder well through the hair. That is all there is to it, and they have escaped the bother and discomfort that accompany washing, rinsing and drying the hair together with the danger of catching cold.

The wonderful results they achieve with ether convinces me that it is the only thing that can grow hair, for their hair is long and abundant in addition to being fluffy and lustrous.

NAVAL BALL ROW FACTS CONCEALED BY "NAVAL SET"

Young Woman Not Permitted to Tell Cause of Paymaster Auld's Agitation.

HE DESCRIBES FIGHT

Declares He Only Defended Himself When Dr. Cowles Called Him "Cur."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Feb. 3.—The proceedings in the court martial of Paymaster George P. Auld, U. S. N., are more interesting for what is hinted at than for what is put in evidence. At times there are indications that the real facts behind the fracas in which Paymaster Auld and Dr. Edward S. Cowles were engaged at a hop at the Charleston Navy Yard will be revealed. But just as the truth is about to be told there is an objection raised, the secret powers controlling the "naval set" are exerted and the denouement is prevented.

Miss Margaret Ames, who invited Dr. and Mrs. Cowles to the hop, was asked regarding Paymaster Auld's appearance just before he asked Dr. Cowles to leave the ballroom, said he was "fearfully agitated, nervous and excited." She said, in answer to a question, that she did not mean to insinuate that he was under the influence of liquor.

She said that she knew what caused his agitated condition, but objected to telling, and the direct question was withdrawn.

Paymaster Denies Striking Doctor.
Paymaster Auld, a trim young fellow, denied positively that he struck Dr. Cowles at the dance. He declared that in asking Cowles to leave the hop he believed he had the approval of the "naval set." His own friends, he declared, had agreed that Cowles was "undesirable," because Dr. Cowles took Miss Healer's picture and of what followed. The encounter, he swore, was provoked by Cowles, who called him a "cur."

Auld testified, in brief: "Miss Ames sent for me and asked me if I used her name in asking Dr. Cowles to leave the ball. I told her that I had. She said she wanted me to withdraw it, that I had been mistaken. I said, 'Miss Ames, I will go to Dr. Cowles and withdraw your name entirely.' I did this, not because I believed I had been mistaken, but only to remove Miss Ames' name from the affair. I did not want any lady's name in the controversy."

"How long was it after speaking to Miss Ames that you told this to Dr. Cowles?"

"I asked Miss Ames where Dr. Cowles was. She said he was in the dressing room. I went there and said: 'Dr. Cowles, I wish to withdraw the name of Miss Ames entirely from this matter.' Dr. Cowles kept asking for an explanation. I was trying to get away from him. I didn't care to continue the discussion with him."

"Why?"

"He was very provoking, used the words 'cur' and 'cur' and others of a similar nature a number of times. I saw he was trying to provoke me and I kept trying to get away. Finally we got outside the dressing room and into the hall."

"I started away, but Dr. Cowles called to me. 'You are a contemptible cur,' I turned around again and said to Dr. Cowles: 'What in—do you mean by that?' I grabbed him by the shoulders. I wrestled with him. I did not strike him. I did not hit him from the back. We had a little wrestling match. He went to the floor."

"Why did you take it upon yourself to invite Dr. Cowles to leave the ballroom? Did you know whose guest he was?"

"Dr. Ames."

"Why didn't you speak to him or to Miss Ames about it?"

"I didn't see her, and I hadn't considered that the man would have the affront to appear. We had just arrived, and Miss Healer was in our party. I considered his presence an insult to us."

"Did Miss Healer ever ask you to exclude Dr. Cowles from the dances?"

"I think not."

"Did she ever ask you to protect her from his attentions?"

"No."

"Miss Healer was distressed."

"Did Miss Healer ever complain to you of the conduct of Dr. Cowles toward her?"

"I had a conversation with her about it. She was very much distressed over his conduct toward her."

"State the first words you used to Dr. Cowles at the hop."

"I told Dr. Cowles that I wished he would find it convenient not to attend this dance, and not to attend any other dances at the Navy Yard."

"Did you or did you not think that Dr. Cowles would leave without a scene?"

"I thought that he would. I believed that I was acting for the navy set, and I knew that I had their approbation."

"Why did you think that Dr. Cowles would leave without a scene?"

"Because if anyone had come up to me at a dance, and if I thought there was any basis for such a request as I made Dr. Cowles, I would leave, and quickly."

"Without any explanation?"

"If I knew the explanation in advance and if it was creditable to myself, I think I would."

The court martial of Dr. A. H. Roberts, Auld's companion, whose devotion to Miss Healer was partially responsible for their championship of the charming naval belle, will begin next Monday.
